Over 350 Patients Escape as Fire Rages in Asylum

Two Upper Floors of Tennessee State Hospital for Insane Destroyed—Terrorized Occupants, Scantily Clad, Driven from Building and Flee to Fields and Highways.

Nashville, Tenn., July 27 (AP).—The rounding up of all but 15 of the 1,272 inmates who escaped from the Central State Hospital for the Insane was reported today within a few hours after fire had sent them scurrying over the country side. Those at large included Jesse Mc-Pherson of Nashville and Samuel Kemper of Wilson county, homicidal maniacs.

Fire destroyed the two upper floors. Nine hundred of the 1,272 patients were back in the institution at dawn, three hours after the blaze had been brought under control.

Nashville police and officials of the institution were organizing an intensive search for the others, 11 of whom were considered extremely dangerous. It was expected that most of the missing patients would return of their own accord, or be brought in soon.

The main building, which is 50 years old, caught fire about midnight. The institution is located eight miles from the city limits of Nashville and the fire gained great headway before two companies of the Nashville fire department and a squad of police reserves arrived.

Driven from Beds Scantily Clad.

All occupants of the main building were driven from their beds, scantily clad, guards and nurses taking time only to warn inmates of their danger. Whether or not there was loss of life was not determined early today, pending an investigation.

Warning shouts of guards, police and firemen added to the terror of the inmates as they fled to fields and down highways and railroad tracks illuminated by the flames. When the upper walls started crumbling the patients who remained clustered about the institution screamed and moaned in fear and broke through the police lines repeatedly.

Officers tried frantically to round them into other buildings of the institution and deputies posted on highways took many of them to police stations in the city, although so far as could be determined none of the dangerous criminals had been accounted for.

At dawn the alarm was sounded throughout the countryside and residents were put on their guard by police messengers.

Patients Aid Guards.

Many of the patients helped guards with the unmanageable inmates during the worst of the disorder, and some were drafted to aid the firemen.

Apparently the fire originated in the roof, although the cause had not been determined. Some 30 nurses and guards and doctors fled without their belongings. They did not have time even to salvage records of the institution. This constituted a serious problem, as many of the inmates, mostly the missing, probably may never be identified again.

The loss was estimated at $250,000.

One fireman was slightly hurt when struck on the head by a falling brick.

SEVERAL MINOR AUTO CRASHES WERE REPORTED

Several minor automobile collisions in which no one was injured were reported to the police on Thursday. Lorin Smith of Albany avenue extension and S. J. Gerace of 129 Clinton avenue collided on Albany avenue with slight damage to their cars.

Michael Schupelack of R. F. D. No. 1, driving a Ford sedan, stopped for the traffic signal on Broadway at Foxhall avenue and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Frank Sabaleo of R. F. D. No. 2, Highland. The Ford was considerably damaged.

Frank Rittle, Jr., of East Kingston, driving a Ford roadster on Washington avenue, was in collision with a car driven by Thomas Roach. The front wheel on the Rittle car was broken.

Winfield Lynn of 67 Hudson street, driving a Chevrolet sedan on Broadway, was in collision with an Essex car driven by Harold Johnson of Montrepose avenue. The Chevrolet car had its fender broken.

RECEPTION IN ENGLAND REGARDED AS EXCELLENT

London, July 27 (AP).—Fight and sporting fans in Great Britain were well rewarded for sitting up to early morning to hear the Tunney-Heeney fight broadcast from New York.

Reception through relay and on a direct wave was regarded as excellent with little atmospherics to interfere with the announcer, as he told the story round by round.

Veterans Picnic and Dance.

Tickets sold last Sunday for the picnic and dance of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Maple Hill Inn on the Rosendale Road and which were not used on account of the rain will be honored at the dance Sunday.

Lutheran Church Meeting.

A special congregational meeting of the Livingston Street Lutheran Church will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. in the church hall. All eligible members are urged to be present.

Moses Opposed to Invading South

New Hampshire Senator Has No Illusions About Republican Ability to Capture Southern Electoral Votes—Intimates That Wife Influenced Senator Owen.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Senator George H. Moses, vice chairman of the eastern Republican advisory committee, is opposed to an invasion of the solid south for the purpose of securing electoral votes for Herbert Hoover, because he believes it would be useless.

"It is a long time before election, time enough for fervid passions to cool off," he said, "I have no great illusion of our ability to break up the solid south, much as I would desire to see it done."

The Senator said his advice to the Republicans was to concentrate on the congressional campaign in certain sections of the south. "Then if we find ground for optimism we may expand and go after bigger game."

Commenting on the enrollment of former Senator L. Owen of Oklahoma in the Hoover ranks, Moses said that the Oklahoman's defection to the Republican party might have been due to the persuasive powers of his wife.

"Mrs. Owen has been strong for Mr. Hoover for a long time," Senator Moses said, "but Senator Owen himself is a more recent convert. It is merely a suggestion on my part that the persuasive power of Mrs. Owen may have had something to do with it."

The ten congressional districts in the south where Moses sees hope of Republican success are in South Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and Alabama.

Rickard Blames Radio and Tax

New York, July 27 (AP).—Radio and "million dollar" fights don't mix, George L. (Tex) Rickard, promoter of last night's battle of the century, said today, and in the future his championship bouts will not be broadcast.

Rickard, whose Madison Square Garden Corporation lost in the neighborhood of $200,000 on the Heeney-Tunney bout, blamed the radio and the 25 per cent Federal tax on all tickets over $5.

Thousands, who ordinarily would have paid to see the fight, either went to the theatres or stayed at home to hear the returns over the radio, Rickard said. The way he feels about it now there will be no more broadcasts.

"No sir," Rickard said, "you can't beat both the tax and the radio. I can tell you right now, definitely, that this is the last big fight I shall promote which will be broadcast through the air."

BISHOPS DECLARE STAND AGAINST SMITH JUSTIFIED

Richmond, Va., July 27 (AP).—Replying to charges of carrying the church into politics, four bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church south have declared their outspoken opposition to Governor Smith justified and asserted that they "will not be driven from the field."

In a joint statement Bishops James Cannon, Jr., of Richmond, John W. Moore of Dallas, Edwin Mouzon of Charlotte and Horace M. Dubose of Nashville last night declared that their activities were in accord with official pronouncements of the church.

"It would be unthinkable repudiation of our personal responsibility as Christian citizens and a base betrayal of those who have a right to look to us for moral leadership," they said, "to retire from the field at this critical juncture."

UNDER SHERIFF SHOT IN GUN BATTLE

Ballston, Spa., N. Y., July 27 (AP).—Shot in a gun battle with a prisoner attempting to escape today, Fred Currier, under sheriff of Saratoga county, was critically wounded. Two deputy sheriffs who went with Currier to the cell of Fred Brown, of Rutland, Vt., when the prisoner was reported missing, joined Currier in exchanging shots with the prisoner. The prisoner had concealed himself beneath a blanket and when the officers entered his cell opened fire with a revolver.

When Brown had emptied his gun, he held up his hands and submitted quietly. Brown was arrested near South Glens Falls Monday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile.

Conference Workers Picture Show.

The comic and classical picture show under the auspices of the Conference Workers of Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church will take place on the evening of Wednesday, August 1, at Odd Fellows' Hall, 193 Cornell street. Refreshments will be served.

Boy's Body Still In River.

Frederick Eichle, 11, of Arlington, N. J., was drowned in the Athens channel of the Hudson river, north of the Oil Dock in the village of Athens, Wednesday afternoon. Grapplers were unsuccessful in efforts to recover the body.

Cool Reception For Nobile Party

Some Hissing But No Disorder As They Debark—Crowds Cheer Swedish Crew—Nobile Pale, Thin and Stooped.

Narvik, Norway, July 27 (AP).—The north's farewell to the survivors of the Italia when they started for home was silent. Today the survivors were rushing southward to a special car to Italy, where they will face an inquiry into their fatal trip to the pole.

Cheers sped the airship on its way when it departed from Vadsoe on May 5 for the Arctic and the town was decked with bunting and flags in their honor. Hostility kept them aboard their base ship, the Citta Di Milano yesterday until the train was ready to take them home.

General Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated dirigible, looked like a man broken physically and mentally. He was pale, thin and stooped and his haggard face showed plainly the strain of worry and illness.

When the Citta Di Milano arrived at the little place of Fagernes, about two miles from Narvik, the crowd waiting on the quay ignored the appeals of the Italian crew to take the mooring rope cast ashore, and a sailor was forced to jump to the quay to tie the ship. Finally a boy of eleven pitied them and helped in the mooring.

Hostile Cries For Navigator.

Captain Filippo Zappi, navigator of the airship, appeared on deck intending to go to buy some clothes. There were hostile cries from the crowd on the quay and he decided to remain aboard the ship.

There was a military air about the vessel. Marines with bayonets fixed stood guard over the gang plank.

Nobile did not appear for some time after the ship had been moored. He was working in the cabin and it was stated he had been spending much time compiling a report of the expedition. He has now recovered sufficiently to stand without a stick, but is still much broken.

The barking of his dog, Titina, was heard aboard. The dog has grown fat and wagged her tail merrily.

During the afternoon the Italians appeared on the deck of the vessel. Natale Cecconi, motor chief, whose leg, broken in the crash of the airship, was bandaged, appeared to be the merriest. He jumped around on crutches with a great cigar in his mouth.

Nobile Shows Past Sufferings.

Nobile seemed ill when he appeared wearing civilian clothes with his gloves in one hand. He smiled a bit when talking to his companions aboard but appeared to be nervous and absent minded. His past sufferings were manifest and this seemed to have a restraining effect on the onlookers.

When the survivors landed radio operator Guiseppi Biogi came down the gang plank first. He threw himself in the arms of his brother who was awaiting him. Cecconi followed, refusing help.

General Nobile still seemed nervous when he said farewell to the officers of the Citta Di Milano. He walked down the gangplank feebly and nearly stumbled.

A large crowd had assembled on the quay by this time. There was some hissing, but no disorder.

Relief Expedition Cheered.

The members of the Swedish relief expedition who are travelling to Stockholm by the same train were loudly cheered as they boarded their car.

The passage of the Citta Di Milano from Spitzbergen to Narvik was very slow. It was stated that this was because Captain Alberto Marino was still very ill.

Marino's leg became frostbitten while waiting on the ice for rescue with Zappi and it was amputated after he and Zappi had been rescued by the Russian ice breaker Krassin on July 12.

The Citta Di Milano will return to the Spitzbergen region to aid in the searching operations for the six members of the Italia crew who drifted away in the balloon part of the airship after the crash. It will also aid in the hunt for Roald Amundsen and the five men missing with him.

Farmers Fight Grain Fire.

Walla Walla, Wash., July 27 (AP).—More than three hundred frenzied farmers and volunteer fire fighters were battling a grain fire early today in the vicinity of Eureka flats, about 30 miles from here, in an attempt to save their homes and crops. It was estimated the fire, which started late last night, had destroyed 50,000 to 75,000 sacks of grain and burned over 10,000 to 25,000 acres of wheat.

Settle for Injuries To Boy.

Morris & Co., meat packers, have settled with Charles Gilmore of Saugerties, guardian ad litem of Charles Gilmore, Jr., for injuries received by the latter when he was injured by a truck of the firm some time ago. Corporation Counsel Grant M. Brinnier of Saugerties was attorney for Mr. Gilmore and Archibald R. MacKenna of Poughkeepsie represented the packers.

Business Certificate Filed.

A certificate has been filed under the assumed name business law by John M. Meredith of Wallkill, R. F. D., that he is conducting a business in the town of Shawangunk under the name and style, "Mountain View Farm."

Henry Ford Visits Kingston, May Buy Old Boat Engines

Cannot Agree With John A. Fischer on Price for Engines of Dismantled Steamer "Mary Powell"—Inspects "Norwich", Famous old Ice King—Ford Industries Need Good Men.

Lack of customers and men and not lack of factory plants is the only thing that troubles Henry Ford, world famous automobile manufacturer, according to Civil Service Commissioner John A. Fischer of Abeel street, who entertained the automobile man for about an hour Thursday afternoon and showed him some relics of the famous old river queen, the Mary Powell, which lies dismantled on the Esopus side of the Rondout creek across from the Fischer residence.

Mr. Ford in his visit to Kingston Thursday afternoon was accompanied by Gaston Plantiff, his New York state sales manager, and his chauffeur. He was on his way in his Lincoln sedan from Albany to New York and about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon stopped at the Ford sales agency of John J. Campbell at Port Ewen. In conversation with Mr. Campbell it developed that Mr. Ford was of the opinion that the Mary Powell and the old Ice King, the Norwich, were still intact, until informed to the contrary.

Mr. Campbell informed Mr. Ford that the Powell had been purchased by Mr. Fischer of Kingston, and the party drove over to Mr. Fischer's place on Abeel street, arriving there about 3 o'clock, and spent about an hour looking over what relics Mr. Fischer had of the old river queen.

Interested in Old Machinery.

Mr. Ford was especially interested in old machinery and was shown some of the smaller engines that had been used in the Powell but, according to Mr. Fischer, Mr. Ford and he could not agree upon the price, and Mr. Ford said that he would have one of his young men call to see Mr. Fischer later and see if they could not get together on a price.

During Mr. Ford's visit with Mr. Fischer the latter asked him a number of questions which Mr. Ford answered readily.

"Why are you not getting out more of the new Ford cars?" asked Mr. Fischer.

"We are putting out now 2,400 cars a day; is not that enough?" replied the automobile king.

Need More Men, Not Plants.

Mr. Fischer also called Mr. Ford's attention to the Island Dock, stating it would make an ideal site for an automobile plant. Mr. Ford in reply stated it was lack of mechanics and men and not of plants that troubled them. The Ford Company had plenty of plants, but not enough good men.

Inspects Steamer Norwich

When Mr. Ford learned that it was Michael Tucker of Port Ewen and not Mr. Fischer who had purchased the old Ice King, the Norwich, and that the vessel, dismantled, lay in the Hudson river off Port Ewen, the party drove back to Port Ewen and inspected what was left of the famous old side-wheeler. Then they returned to Fischer's place as Mr. Ford had asked him to have the smaller engines that were used in the old Mary Powell uncovered from their protective covering of wood so that he could get a closer view of them.

Displays Activity

According to Mr. Fischer, the famous automobile manufacturer is a very active man and to prove to Mr. Fischer that he was in good physical trim he ran up a rather steep incline on Abeel street. Evidently Mr. Ford was not in a hurry to get to New York for it was after 4 o'clock when he bid Mr. Fischer goodbye and motored away.

Although Mr. Ford made no effort to have his visit here a secret, but few people realized that he had spent an hour or so in Kingston on Thursday.

"He looks just like his pictures in the newspapers," observed Mr. Fischer when asked as to how Mr. Ford looked.

Also Visited Catskill

Before reaching Kingston Thursday, Mr. Ford also stopped off in Catskill and visited Department W of the Union Mills, Inc., on Water street, in that village. He arrived there just before noon and was received by George W. Lewis, the manager.

Mr. Lewis informed the Catskill Mail reporter that the object of Mr. Ford's visit was to look at the engine room in a mill, as he was interested in old machinery and the engine in Department W is one of the oldest in that section.

Mr. Ford's visit to the mills in Catskill gave rise to a number of rumors in that village that he was looking over the plant with an idea of purchasing it to turn it into an automobile plant. Judging from the conversation Mr. Fischer had with Mr. Ford while he was in Kingston, Mr. Ford at the present time is more interested in ancient machinery than in seeking new sites for automobile plants.

STORAGE SHED FIRE CALLED OUT FIREMEN

A fire that broke out in a storage shed on Catherine street caused an alarm of fire to be turned in from Box 15 at 2:19 o'clock this morning. The fire was soon under control with but slight damage to the structure. The shed was owned by Louis Herold.

Two Men Die In Plane Crash

Monocoupe Was Being Demonstrated to Possible Purchasers When It Went Into Tail Spin at 100 Feet Altitude.

Warwick, R. I., July 27 (AP).—Clinton H. Thompson of Foxboro, Mass., and Osmond H. Mather, of Hartford, Conn., were instantly killed at 7 o'clock last night when their tiny orange and black Monocoupe went into a tail spin at an altitude of about 100 feet, fell like a plummet and burst into flames 2 yards from the Pilgrim Flying Field here.

Only a few minutes before the plane had taken off, piloted by Mr. Mather, who was demonstrating it to Mr. Thompson with a view to selling a Monocoupe to the New Hampshire airport at Seabrook, Mass., it was said.

Both of the victims were veterans of the war-time flying service. Mr. Thompson's wife and daughter were at the field when the crash occurred. Mrs. Thompson saw the plane fall but was at the time unaware that her husband was in it. When she learned that he was in the cabin in the flaming ruins she screamed, "let me go to him, my Tommy," and would have plunged into the wreckage had she not been restrained by force.

As the monocoupe fell, the 100 visitors at the flying field, field employes and aviators rushed to the ruins in an attempt to save the two passengers. The heat of the roaring fire drove them back, but Jack Ashcraft, member of the Gates Flying Circus, hurtled himself into the inferno in a mad attempt to open the cabin door. He was beaten back by the fire, his arms severely burned.

A newspaperman at the field on another errand saw the tragedy. He declared that he had talked with a flying field attache regarding the safety of such stunting as vertical banks at such a low altitude. The aviator said it appeared that, while the plane was an exceptionally easy one to handle, it should have more altitude.

Only a short time later, as the ship went into a sharp turn, the tail swung up and the plane plunged.

RITCHIE SAYS SOUTH WILL REMAIN SOLID

New York, July 27 (AP).—Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who came to New York for the Tunney fight and dinner with Governor Smith, expressed confidence today that the south would remain solid for the Democratic nominee.

Harding and Coolidge both carried Maryland, but Ritchie said the state's eight electoral votes were safe this year for Governor Smith.

Although he was ready to do whatever the Democratic national committee called upon him for, Governor Ritchie did not believe he would stump the southern and border states. "They don't do much campaigning in the south," he added. He probably would make a few campaign speeches, he indicated, outside his state.

A great deal of his time, he said, would be taken up by his state duties and Maryland's congressional campaign. Six congressmen and a senator are up for election. Senator William Cabell Bruce is seeking re-election.

The two Governors—Smith and Ritchie—are to dine tonight at the Biltmore, temporary Democratic campaign headquarters. The Maryland executive has reservations on a midnight train to his home. He called at the campaign headquarters during the day.

YOUTH BREAKS BONES IN ARM IN FALL FROM TREE

Richard Every, seven years old, of Daytona Beach, Florida, who is spending some time with his grandparents at Shokan, fell from a tree last Saturday while he and another lad were returning from a fishing trip. The youth broke both bones of his arm above the wrist and one of the pieces protruded through the skin. The injured lad was brought to Kingston by automobile and taken to the office of Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen on John street where the injury was attended to and the boy returned to Shokan.

Presbyterians Disapprove of Smith.

Pasadena, Cal., July 27 (AP).—A resolution disapproving Governor Alfred E. Smith's stand on the Eighteenth Amendment and suggesting that all Presbyterians support "a party which has made Prohibition a strong plank in its platform" was adopted yesterday by a unanimous vote of the California and Nevada synod of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

Breaks Leg in Fall.

Joseph Myers of East Chester street, an employe on the Everett building on Wall street which is being altered and enlarged by the Penney Company, fell Monday while engaged at his work. He sustained a broken leg just above the ankle. Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen treated the injury at his office on John street and Mr. Myers was conveyed to his home.

Whispell Case Adjourned.

Walter Whispell of this city was arrested Thursday on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging him with non-support. This morning in police court the hearing was adjourned to July 30.

Smith to Confer With Gov. Ritchie

Otherwise, the Governor Will Spend Week End in Recreation—Attends Wedding of Lunn's Daughter at Schenectady.

Albany, N. Y., July 27 (AP).—A conference with Governor Ritchie of Maryland was the only [illegible] as he left Albany at 1 o'clock this afternoon for a week-end of swimming and golf on the south shore of Long Island.

The Democratic nominee for the presidency [illegible] left Albany on a train for New York. He had arranged a meeting there tonight with Ritchie, with an automobile trip on to Hampton Bays, formerly Good Ground, on Long Island for tomorrow.

At the seashore Smith will [illegible] swimming and golf, his favorite sports, and before he returns to Albany next week he intends to look over Montauk State Park nearby.

The conference with Governor Ritchie was arranged by Smith, who was anxious to talk over the political situation with the man who withdrew from the Democratic presidential race before the Houston convention, throwing his support to Smith, with whom he has gone along to a large extent on the prohibition issue.

As for the Democratic nominee, he is giving little attention to arrangements for his notification here August 22. He is taking it easy and last night, accompanied by members of his family, attended the wedding in the First Presbyterian Church in Schenectady of Mabel Lunn, daughter of George R. Lunn, former Lieutenant-Governor, to Douglas A. Calkins of New York.

At a reception held later at the Mohawk Country Club, the Governor kissed the bride.

Louis Kolts Has Resigned

President of Board of Fire Commissioners Has Served as Member of Board for Twenty-one Years—Needs Time for Business.

Louis Kolts, president of the board of fire commissioners, has filed his resignation with Mayor E. J. Dempsey as a member of the fire board to take effect August 8, when he will have completed twenty-one years as a member of that board.

Mr. Kolts when a young man became a member of the Weiner Hose Company and has served with that company for the past forty-four years. For five years under the old volunteer system he served as an assistant chief.

In filing his resignation with the mayor, Mr. Kolts gave as his reason that after so many years of public service he had decided to retire and devote his time to his business. Mr. Kolts for many years has been engaged in business on Ann street, his shop adjoining his residence.

SMALL GROUP MAY BLOCK DODGE-CHRYSLER MERGER

New York, July 27 (AP).—Possibility that a small group of stockholders in Dodge Brothers, Inc., might yet block the merger of that company with Chrysler Corporation was seen in Wall street today.

With the time limit for deposit of stock set for Saturday noon the investment houses backing the proposed merger today still did not have the necessary 90 per cent of stock set by Walter Chrysler as the minimum to be deposited before he would proceed with the plan.

There have already been two extensions of time and Wall street felt there would be no further extension granted if the requirements were not reached by Saturday.

The stock is held in the main by small stockholders, it was said, many of whom it has been difficult to reach.

VICE PRESIDENT OF BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE DIES

New York, July 27 (AP).—James McNaughton, vice president of the Baldwin Locomotive Company in charge of the New York office, died at his home in Bronxville shortly after midnight of heart disease. He was 65.

McNaughton was born in Queensville, Ont., and except for the period of the World War was connected with the railroad industry since his 15th year, when he entered the shops of a railway equipment firm in Minnesota. Before the war he had been vice president of the American Locomotive works.

He is survived by his widow, three sons, one of whom is A. G. McNaughton of Schenectady, and two daughters.

Recommend Merger.

Ottawa, Ont., July 27 (AP).—Merger of all cable companies of the British Empire with the Marconi Wireless Company to prevent the cable companies falling into the hands of foreign capital is recommended in a report of the Imperial Wireless and Cable conference, made public today.

Fitzmaurice Promoted.

Dublin, Irish Free State, July 27 (AP).—Major James Fitzmaurice, member of the crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen, has been promoted to the rank of Colonel in the Free State air service.

Hoover Receives Homage of People Of His Home State

Journeys by Train to San Francisco to Receive Welcome, Returning by Auto Through Many Towns—Starts Saturday on Vacation Trip—Will Make Campaign of Contrasts.

Palo Alto, Calif., July 27 (AP).—Herbert Hoover left his home here today for two months of rest and recreation in the mountains of the state. He left [illegible] the last time [illegible] the scene of his boyhood days [illegible] at the time of his arrival [illegible] of the death of Mrs. Hoover's father.

The itinerary called for a stop in San Francisco and in the [illegible] was that he will spend another week-end in the Sierra mountains, and then start southward from the Golden Gate. The Republican presidential nominee arranged to leave the quiet of his San Ran Hill home, where he spent a week in work and recreation since he came from Washington, and journey by train to California's great seaport to be welcomed in the City Hall there by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., and to make in response by far the longest speech he had made since the Republican convention at Kansas City.

People Ready to do Homage.

From the City Hall the line of march extended through the main business sections of the city and then through the suburbs of South San Francisco and onward down the peninsula to Palo Alto, through town after town, where the mayors were ready to extend greetings to the nominee and the people to do him homage.

This was to be the first and last public appearance of the nominee until August 11, when he will formally accept nomination and launch his campaign for the presidency.

With much of his day taken up with the homecoming celebrations, Mr. Hoover had little time to give to political conferences and his acceptance speech, and since he is to depart early tomorrow for a long automobile trip into the northern woods, these things will have to wait for the better part of a week.

Pennsylvania Victory Predicted.

During his last day at home, Mr. Hoover received a number of callers, including political leaders from several sections who added their picture of success for his political fortunes to the many that have been painted for the nominee since his arrival here. Representative John Morin of Pittsburgh called to convey greetings from Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, and assurances that Vare is for the nominee "progressively." He predicted victory in Pennsylvania.

The Pittsburgh representative in Congress also told Mr. Hoover that information he had obtained in his recent travels over the country led him to the conclusion that the strength of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee, was at flood tide, and that the Republican ticket would continue to gain.

Believes Real Contest Lies Ahead.

While naturally heartened by these and similar reports which have come to him, Mr. Hoover is represented by some of his advisers as holding the view that a real contest lies ahead and that the party machinery must be kept in first class working order and running at full steam right up to election day.

The nominee has been advised by a number of those upon whose judgment he relies to make this a campaign of contrasts, and that idea is known to fit in with his own. He is going to remain the same Herbert Hoover on the stump that he has been as commerce secretary, with no effort to appear as something that he is not.

NEW YORK STATE POLICE CHIEFS ELECT OFFICERS.

The twentieth annual convention of the New York State Police Chiefs' Association closed at Garden City, Long Island, Thursday night, with a dinner at the Garden City Hotel. The last business meeting was held that afternoon and new officers announced.

They are: President, Elvin Weaver, of Elmira, N. Y.; first vice-president, Daniel McCarthy, of Utica; second vice president, Abram W. Skidmore, of the Nassau County Police; third vice-president, Ray R. Gilson, of Lackawanna; secretary-treasurer, John L. Hyatt, of Albany, who was re-elected. The next convention will be held at Cortland, N. Y.

WOMAN ENGAGED BY ROYAL DUTCH AIR LINES

London, July 27 (AP).—Lady Heath, noted British airwoman, has been engaged by the Royal Dutch Air Lines as a pilot for the passenger service. She is the first woman to be so employed.

Lady Heath, the former Mrs. Elliott Lynn, is the wife of Sir James Heath, ironmaster and colliery proprietor. She arrived at Croydon on May 17 from Cape Town, South Africa. Completing a 10,000 mile solo flight started in February. She was the first woman to fly the length of the African continent.

Coolidge Will Help Minnesota Dedicate Civil War Memorial

President Coolidge will leave his vacation site in Wisconsin on July 29 to join with Minnesotans in dedicating in a rural cemetery at Cannon Falls a memorial to Col. William Colvill, leader of Minnesota troops which were the first to come to the aid of the Union in the Civil War. Above is the memorial, and below is Cannon Falls' Main Street in holiday attire. Gov. Theodore Christianson (inset) of Minnesota extended the invitation to the President.

Cannon Falls, Minn., July 27 (AP)—To a rural cemetery here President Coolidge will come July 29 from his vacation home in Wisconsin to help dedicate a Civil War memorial.

The executive will journey several hundred miles from his Cedar Island Lodge to this agricultural community of 1,500 persons to speak at the unveiling of a statue of Col. William Colvill, commander of the First Minnesota infantry, first regiment offered for Civil War service in the Union cause.

It is because of an immortal charge during the battle of Gettysburg that the memory of Colonel Colvill and the First Minnesota lives. Here 262 men—the membership of the regiment at the time—charged, and only 47 left the field when combat was over.

The memorial, including a statue, a stone with a tablet telling of the charge, an ornamental stone stairway leading to the knoll on which Colonel and Mrs. Colvill are buried, and harmonizing landscaping, is the gift of the One Hundred and Thirty-fifth Minnesota infantry, a National Guard regiment, which proudly traces descent from the heroic First Minnesota.

The regiment will come from its summer encampment at Lake City, 50 miles away, for the dedication. Its officers and enlisted men are contributing funds, and hope for completion of the memorial within a year.

Lawyer, editor and soldier, Colonel Colvill was born in Chautauqua county, New York, in 1830. He heeded the call of the west, and soon after 1850 began practicing law in Red Wing, not far from here.

When President Lincoln called for 75,000 men a St. Paul company was the only organized military unit in the state. Despite this, Gov. Alexander Ramsey, then in Washington, offered regiment of 1,000 Minnesotans, making this state the first to tender troops.

In April, 1861, the call went out. The volunteers found Fort Snelling neglected, but raised the stars and stripes and were formally mustered into service.

At Gettysburg Union forces had been driven back, reserves were on the way, but could not arrive in time, and the First Minnesota was the only regiment ready. Led by Colonel Colvill, the volunteers charged to protect a flank, and then held until help arrived.

The regiment fought in other engagements and was mustered out at Fort Snelling in 1864. Colonel Colvill, who had risen in rank rapidly in the volunteer forces, became newspaper editor as well as lawyer.

In 1905, not far from where he relinquished his command more than 40 years before, Colonel Colvill died, taken ill while attending a meeting of Grand Army comrades.

President Coolidge decided to come here after Gov. Theodore Christianson and a group of Minnesota congressman urged him to break his rule of not leaving his summer home.

Do's and Dont's For Swimming

Washington, July 27 (AP).—Do's and don'ts for safety in swimming have been issued by the Red Cross for vacationers.

"Look before diving.

"Be sure the water is at least seven or eight feet deep and free from hidden stumps and rocks.

"Don't swim alone.

"Avoid long swims after a season of inactivity. Train gradually.

"Wait until at least two hours after eating before swimming.

"When attempting long distance swimming, always be accompanied by a boat.

"Do not change seats except in a wide and steady boat.

"If thrown into deep water by the overturning of a boat, do not lose your presence of mind, even if you cannot swim. Remember the water will support your weight."

In Deep Water

A certain preacher's theme was the parable of the tares among the wheat, and he dwelt on the intermixture of good and evil in the church. "This may seem strange to us," he said. "But we must not forget that there was a Ham in the Ark." Then, evidently thinking that this might sound rather odd, and be open to misconstruction, he corrected himself and added, "I mean, of course, a human Ham."

"good morning, motor"

"GOOD MORNING, ma'am. I see you're loaded in everything but the kitchen stove—guess we are headed for the Farm. Too bad the boss isn't going. No offense, but I always feel easier on a 500 mile trip if he is along to keep track of oil and water. By the way, if I were you, I would drive over to the garage now and let them change my oil. It's pretty thin and dirty. Only take a few minutes and I'll run more smoothly all day. Remember that I turn over 2000 times a minute—33 times a second. If it wasn't for a protecting film of oil, my bearings would burn out in a few minutes. Bad oil can't stand the heat, gums up bearings and gives me indigestion. And say, I know you won't think I am rude if I suggest that you buy good gas this trip. Last time you picked up ten gallons along the way, at a bargain, which pretty nearly did me in. I was panting like a truck in an excavation towards the end. I really am a delicate and nicely adjusted bit of machinery and I need good gas and oil."

SOCONY MOTOR OIL IS CONSTANTLY ADAPTED TO MEET NEW ENGINE NEEDS

WHEN the new Ford was announced, Socony was ready with the proper lubricating oil for it.

When the new high compression motors were planned, Socony was ready again.

Greater speed, higher compression and thermostatic control of the cooling system tend to increase motor temperature. Socony's Laboratories adapted Socony Motor Oil to meet these new needs.

You are not interested in "viscosity" or "flash points" or other technical details. You are interested in the fact that Socony Motor Oil is tested 13 times. You are interested in the fact that 54 years of refining experience stand behind it, and that whenever a new automotive development creates a new lubricating problem, the Standard Oil Company of New York will have a motor oil to meet that development.

Standardize on Socony Gasoline and Motor Oils and change your motor oil every 500 miles.

Thunder in the rear?

You will never hear thunder in the differential if you will have it flushed out and filled with new lubricant twice a year. Do the same thing with your transmission. Socony Transmission Lubricant and Gear Oil cost little. New gears cost a lot.

THE EMASCULATED TREATY.

The last of the fourteen invited nations have now replied "favorably" to Secretary Kellogg in regard to his anti-war pact treaty, but it looks as if the variety of reservations inserted on his request in order to make modification for us read, "Sir Austen Chamberlain's acceptance is a stout reaffirmation in every particular of his original objections." But since, as he declares, Secretary Kellogg has acknowledged the force of every one of them, the British government will be delighted to sign. Callous observers will say that this is only a neat way of showing that the American position has been transmogrified into a British one. The note of the French government agreeing to sign is much of the same order. It stipulates that nothing in the vague wording of the treaty shall be understood as limiting the liberty of France to make war, if it should appear to be necessary. All these things being agreed on in advance as between gentlemen, the treaty renouncing war will be signed by nations reserving the right to go to war under certain conditions."

Moreover, Mr. Kellogg himself has further emasculated the treaty—in response to the complaint at home that joining the League of Nations is our next logical step—by stating that it "leaves America free" and "involves this country in European affairs no more than others previously negotiated." The truth is that the European governments regard the League of Nations as already covering the ground but are "favorable" to anything likely to bind the United States to the general principle. And now, with Mr. Kellogg himself declaring this country entirely "free," what is this ambitious attempt to create another league of nations led by America—later radically emasculated—but a futile "scrap of paper?"

"TIME SENSE" IN POLITICS.

The claim is made that Governor Smith is a master of political strategy, particularly in the matter of "time sense" or extraordinary faculty for knowing just when in the course of a campaign, whether for office or some public issue, to reply to attacks upon him and make a positive statement of his own position. It is stated that repeatedly in previous campaigns Governor Smith has been earnestly advised, even beseeched, by his anxious supporters to make reply or counter attack, but has hided his time and then proved, by the noticeable effect of his statement when made, that he had chosen the psychological or opportune moment.

Referring to this alleged "time sense", and concluding that "there is something to it," or that Governor Smith really may possess an unerring instinct that prevents him from going off "at half-cock" when assailed, the Springfield (Mass.) Republican thinks it possible that Mr. Hoover, despite his lack of political experience, has a share of this "time sense," for he has delayed his speech of acceptance till August 11, thus compelling Governor Smith to delay taking the offensive longer than he might wish. Since this suggestion, however, Governor Smith has fixed August 29 as the date of his own speech of acceptance, which would seem to show that he also is in no great hurry.

Mustapha Kemal keeps right on stuffing modernism down the throats of Turkish fundamentalists. It was bad enough to make them wear hats, sit on chairs, let their women go unveiled and keep their shoes on in church. Now he abolishes the characters so long used for the Turkish language, and adopts the Latin alphabet instead. As usual, Kemal sets the example himself, writing his name in the quaint characters our children are born to, and showing he knows the alphabet. This may be the most fruitful of Kemal's many radical innovations. For a form of writing suggesting [illegible] is always good taste, [illegible] for the doubtful [illegible] of art. It is [illegible] ornamentation [illegible] ugly houses and furniture of the last generation are [illegible] handsome, or at least [illegible] by the simple process of taking off everything removable. That is because it used to be thought that art was something added to a thing after it was made. People understand better now that beauty and grace are basic, depending mainly on structural form and line. Good architecture, for example, makes the framework beautiful in its proportions, and then doesn't [illegible] to stick foolish ornaments all over the building in a futile effort [illegible] defects of plan.

The correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune (Rep.), reporting the rump "Democratic" convention at Asheville, complains that "on the platform Mr. Hoover is made a beneficiary from 'conscientious convictions,' which will be news to those who have scanned his utterances in vain for any such declaration." Obviously this means that though the anti-Smith churchmen of the south will be welcomed into the G. O. P., the leaders of that party don't want them to scare off an equal or greater number of Republican votes.

DEATH FROM A HUMAN BITE.

In these days of boxing where each contestant weighs the same as his opponent, except perhaps in the heavyweight class, and where blows must land at the solar plexus in abdomen or at the point of jaw in order to get the approval of the judges, the fact that an individual would use his teeth on an opponent in a drinking brawl, seems almost too disgusting for words.

And because his teeth were infected one of his victims died, another nearly died, and a third was saved from severe infection by his timely visit to a physician.

I have spoken before about the work of Dr. Weston Price of Cleveland in the field of dental infection.

He has been able to show that the crippling effects of rheumatism and of organic heart ailments can be traced in a great many cases to infected teeth.

He has shown that a small portion of the material from the infected tooth of a seven year old boy was sufficient to kill twenty rabbits. Just think of what an old infected tooth with the most dangerous type of organisms must be doing to the system.

The pus about the root margins of the tooth is likewise dangerous. Of course the liver separates out some of this poisonous material, but when it fails to take care of it, then damage to the system must result. Now Dr. Price and other research men can show case after case to prove their point, but only the medical profession will really take the matter seriously.

However when the bite of a human being means death to those bitten, then it is brought home forcibly to everybody that infected teeth and gums are really as dangerous as physicians and dentists have been trying to tell us.

Now you are not expecting to bite anybody nor to be bitten, but certainly this episode would awaken you all up to the dangers that lurk in and about your teeth.

As you know, some of the worst infected teeth never ache, and the victim is therefore wholly unconscious of the fact that these poisons have got past the immediate neighborhood of the infected teeth, and are doing severe damage elswhere in the body.

Your dentist will tell you that he has a fair chance to save an aching tooth, but when it has gone past this stage it is usually too late and the tooth nerve is removed, or the tooth itself extracted.

There is only one point to all this, and that is to let your dentist examine your teeth every three months, every six months, or once a year, according to the kind of teeth you happen to possess.

Parties now have a new zest —and they're less work, too!

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

Parties, whether they're planned or impromptu, are made easy for the hostess and pleasant for the guests, when there's a General Electric Refrigerator.

For the planned party, there are so many easy-to-make and rather surprisingly effective mousses and parfaits. And there are frozen fruits and aspics that have a most festive air.

For the impromptu party, there can always be drinks and fruits chilled to perfection. And at all times, there are plenty of those gleamingly clear ice cubes.

Come in today and study these unusually quiet, roomy, efficient refrigerators. They are made and guaranteed by General Electric.

oom Col. McKay For Legion Head

chester County Legionnaires Behind Movement to Elect Him ate Commander of American ion—Organized Aqueduct Fo- Ice Force—Active Along Many Lines.

COL. DOUGLAS I. McKAY.

New York, July 27.—Colonel as I. McKay, president of the dard Coupler Company and for- police commissioner of New city, will be the next state mander of the American Legion the Department of New York, if Westchester county Legionnaires their way about it.

Regardless of Colonel McKay's es in the matter, the West- ster county leaders of the Legion e launched an active boom for candidate and have under- n the job of putting him across the September election to be held the annual state convention at nectady.

Colonel McKay is much too occu- d as a business man to take any in the campaign that is being e in his behalf. But the West- ster county Legionnaires have that his record as county com- nder of the Westchester County gion has been of such a high pro- ssive character, that they are de- mined to leave no stone unturned inning the election for him. y posts of the Westchester nty organization have already rsed him for the office. The paign plans are in the hands of hancey Fish.

A West Point Graduate.

Colonel McKay's personal record an excellent one. He was graduat- d as a lieutenant from the United es Military Academy at West nt in 1905. Four years later he signed from the Army to help the e Rhinelander Waldo organize New York Board of Water Sup- Police—better known as the educt Police.

When Major Waldo was appointed ce commissioner of New York by the late Mayor Gaynor, he mediately named Mr. McKay as first deputy.

Upon Commissioner Waldo's res- nation shortly before Mayor Gay- r's death, Mayor Kline, who suc- ded Gaynor, promoted McKay to police commissionership in Wal- 's place. Police Commissioner Mc- y's administration of the New k Police Department was marked the fact that it was one of the re thorough and business-like the partment has known before or ce.

After Mayor Mitchel took office in nary, 1913, Colonel McKay con- ued as police commissioner for eral months until he resigned to come assistant to the president of J. G. White Company, Inc., of ich he later was elected a director d vice-president.

Made Colonel in World War.

With America's entry into the rld War, Mr. McKay responded mediately to the call of the colors, ining the rank of colonel. After sation of hostilities, he returned business life to which, with few ceptions, he has devoted himself clusively since, as president of the ndard Coupler Company. Recent- his responsibilities were increased his election to the board of di- ctors of the Martin-Parry Corpora- on, manufacturers of commercial dy bodies.

In 1925 when the New York State erican Legion held its annual vention in New York City, Colonel Kay consented to act as treasurer the convention arrangements mmittee, a position he filled with eat credit to himself and his com- ittee associates. Last fall the Le- nnaires of Westchester county ervalled upon him to accept elec- n as county commander, an elec- n which has done much to engthen the Legion organization roughout Westchester.

In Demand as Speaker.

Colonel McKay has been a promi- ent figure in the public eye in the t few months, delivering many dresses before Legion gatherings roughout the Ninth District and e metropolitan area, as well as eaking over the radio. An article om his pen on civil areonautical erations in the United States as mpared with European areonau- s, appeared on June 30, 1928, in e New York Journal of Commerce.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

A little fellow was learning from his aunt about Grant, Lee, and other famous leaders of the Civil War. "Is that the same Grant we pray to in church?" he inquired innocently.

"Pray to in church?" You are mistaken, dear," said the aunt.

"No, I'm not," he insisted, "for during service we always say, 'Grant, we beseech Thee, to hear us.'"

Just like a bank, life pays interest to depositors only.

My Summer Girl.

'Tis sizzling hot yet I can't flit
Down to the breezy sea,
Within my office I must sit
Yet do not pity me.

For I, too, have my summer girl,
Though you may think it funny,
Who doesn't set my heart a-whirl
Or make me spend my money.

In fact, it is her chief delight
My comfort to secure;
She sees to it both day and night
That I no heat endure.

My summer girl I'll recommend
To every busy man,
She'll be to him, indeed, a friend,
Good old Electric Fan!

A wide-awake young man who had just arrived at the summer hotel sought out the proprietor and said: "I notice a sign up which reads: 'Guests will please exercise patients until the meals are served'."

"Yes, sir," said the proprietor.

"Well, if that pretty, but pale-looking girl over there is one of your patients, I will gladly take her for a walk along the beach."

"I lifted a 200-pound dumbbell yesterday."

"Zatso? What's her name?"

The reason a girl loves her rival is because cows lay eggs and hens give milk.

Books published in America and England numbered 19,673 in one year. A certain movie star's press agent admits that she reads 'em all.

The high liver usually ends up with a hard one.

So long as there are small boys there will be no friendless dogs.

He was such a cute little shaver that his folks decided to send him to barber college.

Street Lighting Develops Community Pride

The effect of light in influencing human emotion and actions is strikingly illustrated in the theatre. The same effect, though probably less spectacular, is ever noticeable in our various neighborhoods. Dark streets are gloomy streets, and to such an environment the residents quickly become a part. There is little neighborhood pride and the street becomes littered, sordid and miserable.

But flood this street with light. How quickly everybody responds to such a stimulus. A general "policing" follows, and in a short time the street becomes an effective advertisement of community pride.

RAIDERS FIND STILL ON DUTCHESS COUNTY FARM

Federal agents and Dutchess County Sheriff Kinnefick accompanied by several deputies, found a [illegible] at $10,000 apparently [illegible] on the old Hilst farm near the entrance to Wappingers Falls.

[illegible] was built in [illegible] to result in arrests, believed to be a farm hand and not the owner of the still. He alleged two New York parties were the operators and that they left for the city when they learned that [illegible] conducted in the vicinity.

The still was not in operation when the raid was made. Nearby was found material which could be used to construct a twin plant. It is [illegible] a federal employee is now guarding the still, which was partly dismantled. The alleged alcohol taken in the raid will be destroyed by the authorities.

MELEE FOLLOWS RAID.

Fifty Arrests In Greenwich Village Night Club.

New York, July 27 (AP)—Jimmie's well known Greenwich Village night club and restaurant where the village intelligentsia was wont to sit and think, or, as police contend, sit and drink, was raided early Thursday and 35 men and 15 women were arrested.

The frequenters were charged with disorderly conduct and held at the Charles street police station for a hearing. The promoter, Walter Anderson, 32 years old, and a waiter, John Murphy, 50, were charged with violation of the Volstead act.

Tete-a-tete discussions were going on when seven headquarters detectives announced everyone was under arrest. This abrupt interruption of the intimate conversations aroused a murmuring against the invaders which shortly turned to physical combat.

The detectives, however, quickly quelled the disturbance and started to load the men and women into six waiting patrol wagons.

While the exodus was under way someone threw the switch extinguishing the electric lights and once again a battle ensued. Many of the villagers and detectives were roughly handled and somewhat battered in the melee that followed.

Police said the resort had been under observation for several days as a result of complaints from residents of the neighborhood. The detectives said they had made several purchases of liquor.

Beautiful Grasse Region

The Grasse region, in the south of France, is the real land of flowers. There is practically no agriculture in the region save horticulture. For mile after mile as far as the eye can see there are fields of roses, violets, tuberoses and other kinds of blossoms, beautiful beyond description in the harvest season.

MARLBOROUGH

Marlborough, July 26.—Russell W. Bender of Brooklyn has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Will Plank.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

New York—Which is the windy city and why? The Merchants Association of New York notes that weather bureau records show that Chicago had an average wind velocity last year of twelve miles an hour; New York had sixteen.

Washington—Divorce seems to be on the decrease in the President's native state. Official statistics are that 237 decrees were granted in Vermont last year, compared with 297 in 1926. The decline is attributed to legislation providing that decrees shall not be effective until six months after courts have decided cases.

New York—Author of a novel of happy marriage in the hill country, Mrs. Maristan Chapman, is here as the guest of the Literary Guild. For eighteen years she has lived in the Tennessee hinterland and the care of her farm deferred for a long while the realization of her literary ambitions. People marry very young there, she says; divorce is almost unknown; the mountain folk are living in an era like that of the New England Puritans.

Mount Robson, B. C.—Miss Marion Montgomery of Hubbard Woods, Ill., is the second person to scale the highest peak of the Canadian Rockies and the first woman to do it. She climbed Mount Robson with two men.

New York—Society is going in for greyhound racing. A lighted track opens on Staten Island tonight. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marioe Robertson and Billie Burke have entered dogs, as well as Jack Heeney, brother of Tom.

Auckland, N. Z.—The ears of King George were boxed once. When he was a naval cadet he was punished by Captain Goodwyn Archer, who has just died here.

Evanston, Ill.—A million years or so hence standing room will be scarce on earth, but there'll be plenty of food. Science will find a way to make it from the sun and the air, the American Chemical Society has been informed by Dr. H. H. Barnard of Indianapolis.

New York—Federal Judge William H. Atwell of Dallas "likes a drink but abstains." "I like a drink as well as the next man" he said in court, "but since the advent of the prohibition law I have not taken a drink in this country or any other country, because I feel that as an American citizen I must obey the law."

New York—Pawnee Bill is in town with a grievance. Cowboys are now tea tipplers and wear wrist watches instead of six shooters. And as for Tunney Shakespeare, "it just don't seem natural."

In Politics.

Washington—Without making specific reply to Smith charges he sought Tammany support for presidential nomination in 1924, former Senator Owen of Oklahoma, backed up bolt to Hoover with statement praising Republican nominee and denouncing Tammany.

Americus, Ga.—Senator George of Georgia, appealed for loyalty to Democratic national ticket, declaring desertion of party is "joining forces with the old enemy."

New York—Hanford Macnider, Iowa, and Assistant Secretary of War Davison assured Senator Moses corn belt farmers and World War veterans for Hoover. Former Governor Allen, Kansas, declared border states solid for Hoover.

New York—Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, said prohibition question would swing many western votes to Smith.

New York—Major George L. Berry, Tennessee, accepted appointment by Democratic national committee as head of campaign labor bureau.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, July 27—The village has solved one of the most troublesome problems which confront a community. For a long time the question of a village dump has been up for consideration. In the meantime refuse has been dumped illegally at several unfortunate places which made an eyesore and created a menace. Through Mr. Shaw the village has secured a spot capable of meeting the village needs for years. The dump is located near where the Humpo crosses the Springtown road. The local street department will burn over and tidy up the place at regular intervals.

Mrs. Thomas Krom spent Saturday, July 21, in Kingston.

Edward Gulnac of Schenectady spent the week end at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gulnac.

Mrs. Elia Butz, who has been away for some time, has returned to New Paltz.

Mrs. Abel Quick was a Kingston visitor one day the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Shappee spent a few days recently visiting Mrs. Shappee's mother at North Rose, N. Y. Eltinge Hart accompanied them and they enjoyed some fine fishing on Lake Ontario.

Miss Mildred Bell is enjoying a week's vacation at her home on North Chestnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Ross of Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Ostrander at Clintondale.

Mrs. Delia Dingee is spending some time with her sister at St. Andrews, near Walden.

Miss Charlotte Tamney spent a week in White Plains visiting her aunt, Mrs. Michael Sullivan.

Marion Lanigan of the Summer School spent the week end at her home in Bangall, Dutchess county.

Miss Hilda Gerald of New Paltz and Miss Esther Haight called on friends in Stissing recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Casper entertained relatives over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. N. DuBois have been entertaining out of town guests.

The Misses Agnes, Laura and Marie Quick have been visiting Miss Mary Lonz.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Keurstein entertained Mrs. Keurstein's parents over the week end at their home in Libertyville.

Wayside Inns and Outs for Eating

Paint and Lattice Work Do Not Indicate Cleanliness in Handling Food, Is Warning Given to Tourists by State Health Commissioner Nicoll.

Tourists were warned of the dangers of eating food purchased at insanitary roadside stands in a health talk by Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., State Commissioner of Health broadcast recently from Station WGY.

Stating that a trim exterior does not necessarily indicate that such establishments are hygienic Dr. Nicoll emphasized the importance of water and soap to insure the cleanliness of the hands of attendants and dishes, refrigeration for milk and meat, and fly-tight sanitary toilets.

"Judging from the number of cars on the roads on Sundays, holidays and even on week days during the summer months we are fast becoming a nation of nomads" said Dr. Nicoll. "People, now about the automobile, have naturally taken advantage of their opportunities and gas stations, wayside stands, tea rooms, inns and camps are to be found almost everywhere.

"Most of those who offer such facilities know the advertising value of a neat outward appearance of their establishments but it behooves the tourist to look a little deeper than paint or lattice work to order that he may protect himself and his family from illness which may result from an indiscriminate patronage.

"Don't stop at the first place which happens to meet your needs unless that place can serve you without endangering your health. Learn to detect the signs which show whether a place is sanitary. It may take an extra few minutes but it is well worth the time.

"One of the best indications of a sanitary place and probably the one most often lacking is running water in or near the toilets. At the very least a supply of water, some soap and a basin should be provided for the use of patrons. If these facilities are missing it is reasonable to assume that there is not enough water inside the house or stand to enable the attendant to wash his hands sufficiently or to keep the dishes, glasses and cooking utensils clean. Outhouses which are kept in a neat and sanitary manner. Be sure that any food which are not within it they are well covered, the base covered and otherwise protected against the entrance of flies, for it is a fact that the flies which visit the privies will also find their way to exposed food the purchaser of which is running the risk of an intestinal upset.

"Milk should be kept cool and protected from contamination. Meat, including 'hot dogs' should be kept in ice boxes.

"Wayside or 'hot dog' stands are public restaurants within the meaning of the public health law, in the opinion of the Attorney General of New York State and are therefore subject to regulation by the State Commissioner of Health. Any complaints regarding insanitary conditions of such places should be made to the State Department of Health, Albany, N. Y."

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Blouses Are Timidly Tucked Under the Skirt—Violets and Purples Lead the Field in Outdoor Colorings.

New York—A certain insistence on a simple silhouette is adhered to in sports clothes, in spite of occasional concessions to flaring lines. However, the more frivolous note will crowd in; if not in line, then in color or the choice of material.

Among the more sensational developments, but one that has been introduced with a timidity easily accounted for, is a costume with the top section tucked under the skirt rather than worn over it. Sometimes this daring reversion to the "nifty nineties" is partly covered by the introduction of the triangular or bandanna type of girdle. Sometimes a decorative belt, leather or otherwise, justifies the proceeding, in which the costume is usually one of the two, three, or four-piece ensembles, so generally approved.

While many vibrant colors are seen in sports circles, the deep-rooted affection the average woman feels for natural colored wools for this purpose is clearly manifested. Rumor has it that violet and orchids, coming to vivid purples, are to be the first sports wear choice for next season. The success of navy and brown, colors not associated heretofore with sports, is responsible for daring other shades equally disassociated with the great open spaces.

That Lanvin is making gray squirrel a marked favorite for coat trimmings lifts this fur into high distinction. It may also be recalled that gray squirrel was much in evidence in Paris last winter, and impressed tourists as being one of the important style lights of the year.

A Charming Morning Dress

6168. House work will seem less irksome if one may wear so pleasing a frock as the one here pictured.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 38 inch size will require 3⅝ yards of 36 inch material together with ½ yard of contrasting material for neck, cuff and belt facings. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 2 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1928 Book of Fashions showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 20 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Compensation

You cannot wrong without suffering wrong. . . . The exclusive in fashionable life does not see that he excludes himself from enjoyment in the attempt to appropriate it. The exclusionist in religion does not see that he shuts the door of heaven on himself, in striving to shut out others. Treat men as pawns and nine-pins and you shall suffer as well as they. If you leave out their heart you shall lose your own.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Modernistic Art Used in Dresses

Geometric Designs Combine Shades in Most Interesting Manner.

The trend toward modernistic art in household furnishings and decorations is having its following in the dress mode. Despite the fact that the feminine note is strongly emphasized, the desire to create truths of modernistic designs has been increasingly seen.

From Paris, where all things new hail from, the couturiers are meeting the demand for modernistic expression with some really charming creations in different types of dresses. Distinctive models in the modern manner are being shown everywhere.

In some cases the outline is geometric and deep points and angles are seen. A deep V neck in which the point is outlined and the angle again repeated in another one which crosses the belt and extends to the hips, where the skirt makes a skillful connection, designs a modernistic gown of real distinction.

Silk Dress in Which Modernistic Art Is Seen in Unusual Design.

Geometric designs which combine two or more shades of a single color are used to create a decidedly modern frock. Lines which cross each other in all sorts of bizarre effects are used. This manner applies of course to the costumes designed of solid colors. In other cases the geometric designs are obtained in the material itself and the lines are not necessarily pointed or diagonal or calling for trimming in sharply drawn designs.

Alice White, featured motion picture player, appearing to advantage in an extremely modern dress of the new tendencies, is seen in a youthfully charming role in "The Big Noise." Miss White has chosen a silk in which modernistic art is seen in its unusual design. The dress is sleeveless and possesses a sailor's tie and a belt of blue taffeta.

"High Plane of Politics Will Be Low By Fall."

—Will Rogers

...With politicians you just ain't ...gged to conduct anything on ...h plane. The whole election ...n't be a month old till every... is it will revert right back ... it. So this will give you a ... of rough idea of how low it will get by Fall.

"So there's where the Anti-Bunk Party is lying low, just to grab up the fellow that can see these other two boys are nice kids, but they are just running for the job.

"They got their minds set on the tail end of Pennsylvania Avenue, and they will promise anything short of perpetual motion to have Senators eat breakfast with 'em. Both, as I say, are personally O. K. but the lads are bogged up in applesauce with their platform.

"'A Campaign on a High Plane.'

By L. T. MERRILL

(©, 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

15.—Birth of the Republican Party

HENRY CLAY succeeded in lulling a large portion of the public into a false sense of the duality of his compromise of 1850 as a permanent settlement for the slavery question. Clay went to his grave thinking he had saved the Union. But the "irrepressible conflict" merely had been postponed.

Senator Stephen A. Douglas reopened the slavery issue in the territories only four years after Clay thought he had laid it, with the Douglas Kansas-Nebraska bill, by which he proposed admission to the Union of those two states, slave or free, according to the decision of the citizens living in them.

In the North, passage of this bill made Douglas the currently most hated man in America. He was hissed off the platform in Chicago when, in his own state, he tried to explain his position. In various places he was hanged in effigy for "treason."

The immediate political effect of the Kansas-Nebraska bill was to smash the Whig party wide open along sectional lines. A coalition of northern Democrats and members of the short-lived Free Soil party began at once to set in.

Credit for being the original initiator as well as provider of the name for the new Republican party belongs to Maj. Alvan E. Bovay, a Whig lawyer in the town of Ripon, Wis.

Visiting New York in 1852, he had suggested to Horace Greeley that formation of a new party opposed to extension of slavery in the territories was inevitable, and he proposed the name Republican for it. When the Kansas-Nebraska bill was in congress, Bovay put his plan into execution in his home town. With Jehdiah Bowen and Amos Loper, Bovay summoned a meeting in the Ripon Congregational church, March 1, 1854, which passed resolutions declaring that in event of enactment of the Kansas-Nebraska bill the old parties must be discarded and a new one be formed, on the basis of opposition to slavery.

A few days later the senate passed the bill. The Ripon leaders promptly called another meeting for March 20, 1854, at which 54 voters, out of the scarcely more than 100 in the town, met and became the first members of the Republican party in America.

The little schoolhouse wherein this meeting was held still stands in a corner of the Ripon college campus, carefully preserved as the birthplace of the party.

Three and a half months later a state convention met at Jackson, Mich., for the similar purpose of fusing old parties in a new antislavery group. Too large for the biggest hall in town, the gathering adjourned to an oak grove nearby, where it adopted a ringing platform against slavery extension, urged the calling of a national convention, and as had been suggested at Ripon, selected Republican as the name of the new party. The name was proposed to leaders in the Michigan convention by Horace Greeley, who had received the suggestion two years earlier from Bovay.

The appellation Republican, was reminiscent of the earliest name applied to the party of Jefferson—the Republicans, or Democratic Republicans, who had shortened their party designation to Democrats under the Jackson regime. It also was recalled that Jefferson, though a slave-holder himself, had laid down the policy of slavery restriction for the old Northwest territory region north of the Ohio river.

Southern Democrats were not a little irked that the Republicans should claim to be revising the ideas of Jefferson and also should revive the first name by which Jefferson's followers had been known. They tried to discredit the new party by referring to its members as "Black Republicans."

Once begun, the Republican movement was spread rapidly by local mass meetings and state conventions. Within a year of the passage of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, the party had sent eleven senators to Washington and had majorities in fifteen northern states. It was ready to give battle on a national front in the Presidential election of 1856.

The date of the national nominating convention was timed for the anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1856, and Philadelphia, the cradle-city of American freedom, was chosen as the meeting place. Every free state, also Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky, were represented in the convention by men who came stirred on the moral issue of the day with a strong crusading spirit.

The picturesque figure of the California explorer and adventurer, Col. John C. Fremont, loomed above all others, including statesmen of more seasoning, as the most available nominee for President, and he was selected on the first ballot.

The son of Abraham Lincoln, who was to be the successful standard-bearer of the party only four years later, had but faintly risen above the national horizon. Put in nomination for vice president, he was eclipsed by Senator William L. Dayton of New Jersey by a vote of 259 to 110.

Hay Fever Victims May Find Relief

Albany, N. Y., July 27 (AP).—Ka-choo, ka-a-choo, hay fever time will soon be with us again.

For those perennial sufferers from hay fever, "rose colds," asthma, and similar afflictions, the New York state health department has a word of comfort, declaring that in a large number of cases it is possible readily to relieve the disease, and sometimes to cure it permanently without the patient leaving home.

The belief that the pollen of the widely scattered golden rod is the cause of hay fever is almost a libel on that autumnal flower, in the opinion of experts of the department who point out that the pollen of this flower is heavy and therefore causes few cases as it does not scatter easily.

True hay fever, according to the department, is due to the peculiar sensitiveness of some persons to the pollen of grasses, weeds, plants or trees. Among the list of plants or trees whose presence produces a fit of sneezing on the part of the unfortunate victim are the birch, maple, daisies, asters, sweet clover, corn, roses, golden rod, rag weed, and many others.

The disease, when it occurs at odd times throughout the entire year, and certain types of asthma, may be attributed to adenoids or other nose obstructions. Another cause is the sensitiveness of certain persons to substances, such as dandruff from horses, dogs and cats; dust from feathers in pillows or hair in mattresses; cotton, and insecticides. It may even be induced by certain foods, as for example, eggs, strawberries and certain cereals.

By a series of elimination experiments, department experts claim, it is usually possible to determine the exact cause of the disease in each case. When such experiments fail, a physician can often determine the cause by inoculating into the skin of the arm minute amounts of a sterile extract of each of the pollens or other substances considered capable of producing the symptoms. No discomfort is felt until the substance actually causing the trouble is injected, when a slight swelling, reddening and itching occurs.

Once the right substance is detected, relief from the affliction can usually be obtained by weekly inoculations of increasing doses of an extract of the substance in question, thus causing the body to manufacture its own antidote.

Local Salvation Army Leaders

Capt. and Mrs. Robert Rainbow.

Captain and Mrs. Robert Rainbow, who are now in charge of Salvation Army work in this city, are very much pleased with Kingston and feel that their work here will be successful owing to the cooperation the residents have already shown and because records reveal that the Salvation Army has always been aided in every movement by Kingstonians.

Captain Rainbow, a graduate of the Salvation Army Training College in New York city, came to this city about four weeks ago from Middletown. His six years of experience coupled with the training given at the Salvation Army school enabled him to carry on a very successful two years' work there, which he hopes to continue in Kingston. Before he was assigned to the post at Middletown Captain Rainbow served in the cities of New Jersey, including Newark, New Brunswick and Bayonne.

A definite program has not yet been planned by Captain Rainbow, but according to a tentative schedule his future labors here will cover a wide scope. He is particularly interested in work among boys and contemplates forming a music organization among them. The formation of the organization will likely be started after the captain and his family return from a three weeks' vacation at White Plains.

White Plains is the city in which Captain Rainbow's home is situated, although it is not his native city. Liverpool, England, is where he was born. As a boy he attended the Sunday school of the Salvation Army in the English city and after coming to this country at the age of eight years decided to devote his life to the work of this institution.

Captain Rainbow has been elected a member of the Kiwanis Club. His predecessors from the time of Ensign Ralph Miller, who made a fine mark while working in this city, were members of the club. The present captain was elected a member to take the place of Ensign Garrett Kliphouse, a man well liked here, who is now stationed in Poughkeepsie.

The splendid reception given Captain and Mrs. Rainbow upon their arrival in Kingston impressed the Salvation Army leaders very much. They feel confident that the good will and cordial spirit manifested will make their stay in Kingston one that will be marked by much success.

Poetry and the Bible

Murray's Illustrated Bible Dictionary says: "If rhyme and meter be considered essential, poetry would have to be denied to the Bible altogether. For of rhyme, there is absolutely none; and as meter depends upon pronunciation and accent, it has generally been regarded as hopeless to restore these essential elements, so long have they been lost in the transmission of the language through common speech alone."

Jewish Lamentation

There are various lamentations made at the wailing walls in Jerusalem. Many prayers were arranged by R. Samuel in the Eighteenth century appropriate for use on entering Jerusalem. A devout alien Jew is accustomed to rend his garment, reciting the tenth verse of the forty-fourth chapter of Isaiah. Favorite lamentations are those of the fourth and fifth chapters of Jeremiah, also the seventeenth verse of the first chapter.

Tunney Batters Heeney and Bout Is Stopped in 11th

From the Third Round to the Eleventh There Is No Question of Champion's Supremacy—Rickard Loss Is Placed at $300,000.

(By Edward J. Neil)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, July 27 (AP).—The Hard Rock from down under was well nigh gravel today, pulverized by the power in the fists of Gene Tunney, a real fighting Marine.

Under a storm of gloves that ripped his seamed features open and closed him in one eye, Tom Heeney of New Zealand, who plodded his way past all American Challengers, crumbled last night in the eleventh round of the fifteen round battle he had earned with the heavyweight king.

Heeney went down to defeat a shambling, gory figure, numbed in body by terrific right hand punches which a new brand of Gene Tunney poured into the almost defenseless challenger for nearly five consecutive rounds. Heeney was saved from the ignominy of a knockout only by the shielding arm of the referee after one of the greatest stands and most ridicous beatings a heavyweight ever endured.

Overshadowing, perhaps, the unquenchable courage of the challenger in the face of withering glove fire, was the picture of the champion, revealed at last under the glaring lights of the Yankee Stadium ring as a "killer"—the type of fighter Tunney in his heart always had envied.

Unfortunately, Gene's awesome display of punching venom came too late to save Tex Rickard from the first great financial failure of his career. Although official receipts have yet to be announced, the promoter admitted that the crowd of 56,000 that only half filled the huge dome of the American League world champions paid but $700,000 to see the major fistic show of the outdoor season.

Loss Probably $300,000

The loss to Rickard and the Madison Square Garden Corporation, coming at the end of a series of heavyweight championship matches that set new records for receipts, probably will reach $300,000. The championship tilt, counting a guarantee of $525,000 for Tunney and $100,000 for Heeney, probably cost $800,000 to stage and of the $700,000 estimated receipts, the promoter must pay 30 per cent in taxes to the state and federal governments.

But through that dreary vista of figures that showed Rickard nothing but losses where gates of $1,500,000 and $2,600,000 once bloomed under the magic touch of Jack Dempsey, the promoter today saw visions of bigger and better "gates" to come.

The impressario of Madison Square Garden believes that he now has in Tunney the makings of one of the greatest drawing cards in the history of the ring—a master boxer with the power in his granite fists to batter helpless a man who never before was punched to the canvas.

Certainly the handsome champion, bronzed the color of an Indian, trained to the minute, and savage in the perfection of his clouting accuracy, turned loose upon Tom Heeney a brilliant, all-around display of fighting power.

Issue One of Endurance.

From the third round until the seventh, when a slashing right hook paralyzed the optic nerve in Tom's left eye, there was no question of Tunney's supremacy. And from the moment that blow landed until Referee Ed. Forbes mercifully stepped in to save the Anzac, blind and helpless, after two minutes and 52 seconds of slaughter in the eleventh, the sole issue was one of endurance —Heeney's ability to absorb punishment.

For just a moment in the tenth round, as Heeney, battered senseless by a storm of punches that rattled off his flinty chin and chugged deep in his burly body, stretched helpless at the edge of the ring, Gene seemed to have won the prize of a clean knockout. But before a count could be started, the gong clanged to end the session and Tom's despairing seconds dragged him to his corner. Heroic treatment restored the Anzac sufficiently to warrant sending him forth for the final round, but the end, forecast from the moment Gene paralyzed half of Heeney's sight, could not be averted three minutes more.

Having the sympathy of most of the crowd by his Spartan indifference to punishment, Heeney tore into the champion in the first round and drove Gene before him under a storm of short, looping hooks to the head. Contemptuous of punishment, the craggy-featured challenger ripped through Tunney's guard, bulled him about the ring, and drummed his punches on Gene's head.

Throng Amazed.

It was an amazing sight to the throng, which viewed the champion as a 3 to 1 favorite and had come to see a master boxer riddle his foe with lightning lefts, an occasional right and dazzle him with the fastest footwork any heavyweight has developed since the days of Jim Corbett. It was just as amazing to Tunney and a worried, harrassed look was on his face as he trotted to his corner, a red bruise above his left eye.

Gallant as was Heeney's start amid the roars of approbation of the crowd, it ended as quickly as it began. Within the next three minutes, Tunney had solved the problem of the plunging Anzac enough to hold Tom even in the round. From then on Heeney failed to win another round.

Strangely enough, solution of that tough, punching problem from New Zealand with the concrete jaw and steel-ribbed body did not come through slugging with the challenger. In the second round Gene called upon all his boxing skill to ward off Tom's rushes. At every turn he tied Heeney up in clinches with arms so strong that even Tom's bulgy muscles could not break the grip.

But in between times, Gene smashed everlastingly at the challenger's body, now short, thudding left hooks that boomed into the pit of the stomach, now right smashes under the heart that painted Heeney's side a deep red and drained his stamina.

Weakens Under Body Blows.

Then as Heeney weakened under body blows that threatened to crack a rib, Gene cut loose again in the third, boxing coolly whenever Tom threatened, pinning him in a vice-like grip, but crashing always those punches to the challengers' iron sides. The punishment began to tell on the bull-chested invader. His rushes grew more desperate. Punches wandered off the line.

Switching to Heeney's head in the fourth round, Gene drew blood from Tom's nose and lips with knife-like left jabs and right hand smashes that carried every ounce of the weight and strength in the champion's body behind them. Desperately, but in vain, Heeney slashed back in an effort to halt his tormentor.

Now and then, as Heeney's features crumbled under the champion's marksmanship, Tom rushed Tunney to the ropes in brave but futile efforts to pin him down to one spot. There Gene showed his sole weakness. Whether from the memory of the September night in Chicago when Jack Dempsey caught him on the ropes and all but knocked him out, or because of natural aversion to that style of fighting, Tunney seemed always at a disadvantage there. Once he bounded so fast to the center of the ring that Tom was left standing by the hempen barriers. But the steam was gone from the Heeney attack.

Steadily the champion whittled away at his challenger, standing toe to toe with Tom to batter and slice at his body as Heeney's strength failed. In the seventh round, the one blow that settled the battle left Tom blinking and rubbing his eye and for a moment it seemed as though the milling might end then and there.

True Sportsmanship.

Here Tunney, now the master in full command of the milling, showed a brand of sportsmanship that brought cheers from the throng, already tiring of the gory spectacle. Gene clinched with the challenger as Heeney fought to gain control of the left eyelid, held him there and refused to punch until he was sure that the injury was just one of the "breaks" of the game.

Happy at the outcome of the bruising fray that definitely established him as a slugger of tremendous power, Tunney was carried from the ring by his admirers and rushed away to rest and plan his hiking tour through Germany. Off in his dressing room, Heeney bemoaned the punch that temporarily had robbed him of half his sight.

And around the ringside, where Rickard's proverbial weather luck had kept things dry until the fight was ended, newspapermen, like a flock of drenched roosters, huddled over their typewriters pounding out copy in a drenching downpour of rain that swept the city.

Tunney's Right Now Undisputed

Champion's Combination of Science and Power Has Finally Won the Allegiance of the Boxing World.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Though Gene Tunney has been king of the heavyweights for the last two years, today, for the first time, his right to the heavyweight throne was undisputed.

Tunney has been considered by many persons as unworthy of the crown glorified by the slugging John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and other famous punchers. But his combination of science and power, which resulted in his technical knockout of Tom Heeney last night at the Yankee Stadium finally won the allegiance of the boxing world.

Heartened by the first knockout in his championship career, Tunney was happy to announce "I intend to remain in the fight business." He admitted, however, that he was in for another long idle spell because there was no promising opponent in sight, now that the New Zealander was out of the way.

After the battered Heeney had been removed from the ring and police had fought thousands of Tunney's admirers to get him passage to his dressing room, the champion refused to make any comment on his victory until he had been assured that his late challenger would suffer no permanent effects from his defeat. Only then did Tunney say: "I am very gratified to have won."

The victory, Tunney said, was due solely to the battle plan he mapped out almost three months ago when he went to Speculator to train.

"I made Heeney fight my fight for me," Tunney said. "I almost knocked him down in the first round but when I saw what a tough fellow he was, I decided to center my attack on his body and let him defeat himself. He was too strong to knock out with one punch. It took a good many hard rights to his body before he weakened."

Tunney said his greatest aid was Heeney's habit of rushing him while he had the strength to do so. Such tactics, the champion believes, added more force to his blows, every one of which weakened the challenger.

Tunney indignantly denied the charge, made by one of Heeney's handlers, that he had stuck his thumb in Tom's eye.

The champion, when he left the ring, bore few battle scars. There was a small bruise on his chest and several scratches on his back. These latter marks were probably made when Tunney brushed against the ropes, and not by Heeney's fists. He had two of these rope marks when he entered the ring.

His face was as unblemished as when he took off from Speculator yesterday morning but his right ear, which was injured during training, had been aggravated by several hard Heeney blows. Lou Fink, Tunney's trainer, promptly bathed this organ to reduce the swelling and this eliminated the danger of a "cauliflower," a possible ring scar which causes the champion to shudder at the thought.

Pan-Ams to Play 2 Week End Games

Manager Bill McNally of the Pan-Ams hopes to put his players through one of the best practices of the season tonight at the Saugerties road diamond. The session will be to put the oilmen into shape for their coming games over the week end. Saturday the Pan-Ams will play at Margaretville and Sunday they will meet the Fleischmanns team on the mountain community diamond.

Walt Black will do the hurling in the Saturday game against Margaretville, which is expected to whip the Pan-Ams into shape for the Sunday tilt with Fleischmanns. Carpenter will start this game, that will undoubtedly be a thriller. The meeting of the oilmen and the Fleischmanns team will be the first this season. The Pan-Ams have defeated the team three times consecutively and although they strongly consider copping the coming tilt, the Fleischmanns club is taking every step to make the game a successful stepping stone to a series of meetings they hope to win. Just who McNally will take to Fleischmanns for a relief hurler is not known as Celuch, one of his dependable men, is suffering from a sore arm.

It is requested that every one of the Pan-Ams be present at tonight's practice session to get some particular orders concerning their coming games.

GENE TUNNEY WELL PAID FOR HIS WORK

New York, July 27 (AP).—Gene Tunney was well paid for the 32 minutes and 52 seconds he worked in retaining his heavyweight championship against the onslaught of Tom Heeney. He drew $266.22 for each second's work. The champion's purse was $525,000 and he occupied 1,972 active seconds in making the title safe for another year.

He was rewarded less generously than in his bout with Jack Dempsey when he first defended his title at Chicago for then he fought a shorter time and got more money. He will show a profit, for he will never spend $266.22 a second.

Spartons vs. Woodstock.

The Spartons will go to Woodstock Sunday where they will meet the baseball team of that place for the second time this season. The local team wishes to book games for next week with some of the fast teams in this vicinity and would be pleased to hear from managers in the near future. William Longendyke, whose 'phone call is 1313, will arrange games after 7 o'clock any evening.

Only America Could Stage Fight

English Writer Says Tunney-Heeney Spectacle Could Never Be the Same in London or Paris—Britain Must Wait for Champion.

(By Bernard Richarson-Hart)
(Staff Correspondent of Reuters, Ltd.)
(British News Agency)

New York, July 27 (AP).—Only in New York, that monstrous tuberosity of civilized life, could a spectacle like last night's fight be adequately presented. It could never be the same in London or Paris. Only in America's premier city would it be possible to stage a spectacle which combined the atmosphere and many of the features of a Spanish bullfight, an English soccer match and a gala performance in a Roman gladiatorial arena.

Apart from the colossal scale on which everything was planned, and conceived, the mammoth splurge of publicity and the "ballyhoo" (an excellent word which the editors of the Oxford dictionary might gratefully and gracefully receive), one of the things which struck me most about the fight was the uncontrollable enthusiasm and feverish emotionalism of the crowd.

At a big night at the National Sporting Club in London, one might hear a few restrained handclaps or a murmured "well hit, sir," but that is usually all there is to it. Perhaps Mr. Rickard would do well to remember this, should he ever think of staging a heavyweight championship in England, as he told me the other day he hoped to do.

The English papers do not devote a twentieth of the space to boxing that the American papers do, and there is nothing like the same interest in boxing on the other side that there is in racing or football.

Women's Attendance Surprising.

The relatively large number of women present seemed rather surprising. They came in all costumes from elaborate toilettes and evening wraps to "summer knockabouts." Some wore picture hats, others tam-o-shanters, most of those in evening dress were escorted by men wearing dinner jackets and straw hats (a combination which would cause more stir at the National Sporting Club in London than a championship bout.) Some of the ladies really seemed to be genuine fans. Two who happened to be sitting near me stood up on their seats and shouted and yelled epithets the pithiness and cogency of which left nothing to be desired.

The bout itself, though lamentably one-sided, was a most exciting and spectacular affair. It was a fight between a bucolic, stouthearted Roman gladiator and a Greek athlete, a blacksmith's brawn versus skill and grace. Instinct pitted against intellect; pluck and tenacity versus reason incarnate. Beneath Tunney's onslaught Heeney must have felt like a Chinese undergoing death by the torture of "The Thousand Slices."

Yes, the British Empire will have to wait a little longer before a champion arises in its midst to bring the heavyweight title back to the country of its birth.

P. O.-City Defeat West Shore, 9-6

Excellent relief pitching by Tommy Davitt enabled the Postoffice-City to defeat the West Shore by a score of 9-6 in the first game of the second half of the Industrial League Thursday at the Athletic Field. Late rallies won the game for the Post-office-City team.

With three men on the bases, two out and the score 6-1 against him in the second inning Tommy relieved Sahloff, who had replaced Schick, and held the Railroaders in check for the rest of the game. He allowed but three hits.

While Davitt was keeping the Railroaders from scoring his teammates pounded Schlesser hard and took advantage of four errors to score eight runs. Davitt also helped himself to three hits.

Three errors and hits by Williams and Schlesser gave the Railroaders three runs in the first inning. In the second they scored three more on four walks and hits by Williams and Bruck.

A single by Lutz Bruhn, Wheeler's sacrifice and an error put the combination team in the run column in the third. In the fifth they took the lead with a big rally.

Two walks, hits by Lynch, Davitt, Schwab and Maroon, and two errors gave them six runs in this inning. Two more were registered in the sixth on hits by Davitt and Lutz Bruhn, and A. McGuire's error.

Williams pitched the last inning for the West Shore and retired the side in order.

Watson Wheeler, P. O.-City catcher, had to leave the game in the fourth inning as a result of being hit in the face by the ball.

Brighams Fall Before Rondouts

The Brigham A. C., after winning seven straights, was given a setback by the Rondouts in their seven-inning tilt at Block Park Thursday night. The Rondouts, who opened their attack in the initial inning by scoring five runs, put their claim on the game early and took it 10-4. Manager Golnek's charges walloped "Flippo" Komosa's slants fifteen times. Joe Coughlin on the mound for the Rondouts gave the brickmakers six hits, one of which was good for the circuit. # All-Stars to Play Jeffersonville

Sunday the Kingston All-Stars will travel to Jeffersonville, near the border of Pennsylvania, where they are expected to meet a fast stepping aggregation of ball players. Manager McCardle was informed that the opponents of his team have not dropped a game this season.

Joe DuBois will toss them over for the All-Stars. The rest of the lineup will be the same as used in past games, with the exception of Pres Knight. McCardle recently signed him to play with the All-Stars for the remainder of the season. It is expected that his services will be a great asset to the team.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Now that it's too late to do any pennant chasing on their own hook, the Braves apparently have decided to get what melancholy satisfaction they can out of taking down first division clubs a peg or two.

They chose the Chicago Cubs as their first victims, smote them high, wide and handsome on Wednesday and repeated the dose yesterday. Richbourg's single in the 14th yesterday scored Farrell with the run that beat the Cubs, 7 to 6, and sent the Bruins down to third place in the standing, one notch below the Cincinnati Reds who opportunely enough beat the Phillies.

Charlie Root, third Chicago pitcher of the day, hurled gilt-edged baseball until the 14th but he was matched, step for step, by Bob Smith, the reformed infielder, after the score had been tied at 6-all in the sixth.

A four run rally in the ninth enabled the Reds to trim the Phils, 6 to 4. Jack Hendricks throwing 19 men into the fray to pull it out of the fire.

The St. Louis Cardinals lengthened their league lead to five full games by taking over the Brooklyn Robins, 6 to 1. "Old Pete" Alexander held the Robins to seven hits while Petty, Koupal and Ehrhardt were pounded for 15, including a home run and a triple by Frankie Frisch.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants did all their scoring in the second inning, Bush's crew counting seven times to five for the clan of McGraw. Burleigh Grimes, aside from that one bad inning, had the Giants in control. Carl Hubbell, rookie from Beaumont, started his first major league game and was pounded out of the box in the Pirates' seven run splurge in the second.

Over in the American League, the New York Yankees divided a twin bill with the Detroit Tigers. The champions won the first game, 12 to 1, by the simple process of scoring 11 runs on 12 hits in the twelfth inning. The Tigers batted four pitchers hard in the second encounter and finished on the long end of a 13 to 12 score.

The Red Sox for the second straight day lost both ends of a double header to the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 2 and 4 to 3. Billy Bayne and George Gran were the winning pitchers.

Their third straight win, 5 to 1, over the Chicago White Sox put the Philadelphia Athletics eight and a half games back of the league leading Yankees. Lefty Grove was complete master of the situation from start to finish while his teammates were batting Al Thomas at opportune moments.

After dropping their seventh straight to the St. Louis Browns in the first game of a double header, the Washington Senators came back to win the nightcap, 5 to 4. Sam Gray pitched the Browns to a 7 to 5 victory in the first game and registered his 15th victory against seven defeats.

SAUGERTIES BUSHWICKS FALL BEFORE CULLOTON

Bud Culloton held the Saugerties Bushwicks to nine hits when Freddie Weimore's Poughkeepsie club won from them 10-2 at Saugerties Wednesday afternoon. Jack Robins caught for the Poughkeepsie team. Frouth, who held the Wetmore aggregation to five hits after entering the box in the fourth inning, proved the strongest hitter of the Saugerties club. Besides starring with three hits out of four tries, he made the longest drive made on the diamond this season, which was good for three bases. Baker, who played in the Saugerties outfield, accepted eight chances and completed them perfectly.

Newlin to Head Bar Association

Seattle, Wash., July 27 (AP).—With a new constitution and by-laws adopted and committee reports and routine business out of the way, the American Bar Association was ready to settle its major problems.

Election of a president, which earlier this week it was believed would have a three cornered contest, had almost narrowed down to a one-man affair in the opinion of most delegates, William H. Newlin of Los Angeles probably was named the officer.

Memphis, Tenn., appeared the probable choice for the 1929 session.

Presentation to the floor of a report on the amendment of the crime resolutions of the nation, made in a report to the criminal law section, was expected later. Justin Miller, dean of the University of Southern California Law School and chairman of the section, had promised to present portions of an elaborate report made by Arthur V. Lashley, of St. Louis, director of the Missouri and Illinois state crime surveys.

Lashley and Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president, in his annual address noted the increase in violence and crime during the last half century and both spoke of the effect of prohibition upon increase in organized crime and its influence upon "corrupt" politics.

COOLIDGE CATCH OVER REGULATION ALLOWANCE

Superior, Wis., July 27 (AP).—President Coolidge's success as an angler and Wisconsin game regulations fixing a maximum trout catch per day appeared to have become entangled when reports came today from the summer White House that the chief executive, in a long fishing day last Wednesday, had made a haul of 26 trout and thereby had exceeded by one the maximum allowed.

On that day Mr. Coolidge started out on the Brule early in the morning, and with only a brief interruption for luncheon remained fishing until past six o'clock in the evening. The trout were plentiful and he made the most of his opportunities.

Larock's presence in the canoe with Mr. Coolidge probably will prevent the latter's reported performance from being interpreted as a violation of the game regulations. Should the Chippewa guide be counted in as a member of the fishing party, then the maximum catch allowed would be fifty for the day.

MARINES PREVENT FIRE SPREADING AFTER BLAST

Norfolk, Va., July 27 (AP).—A company of marines from the Norfolk Navy Yard early today helped to prevent fire spreading after the ignition of 4,000 pounds of smokeless powder at St. Julien's Depot five miles from here, caused a terrific explosion.

No one was injured and very little property damage was done. Within a few seconds after the blast, all of the 40 magazines at the depot were flooded by a special emergency system and the depot fire department was playing streams of water on the ruins of the exploded magazine.

Spontaneous combustion was the only explanation that ordnance officers could advance as a probable cause of the explosion.

Elects Four New Members.

Amsterdam, July 27 (AP).—Postponing any discussion of amateur rules issues which might have involved the Charlie Paddock case, the congress of the International Amateur Athletic Federation at its opening session this afternoon, elected four new members, including Cuba and Peru, and approved 31 world's record track and field performances.

FORCE REFUND OUT OF LAND SWINDLERS

More Than Three Millions Paid Back to Victims.

Washington.—More than $3,000,000 has been refunded to victims of the many real estate swindles through the operation of the real estate license laws in the twelve states which have kept records of what refunds have been made since the law went into effect, according to a compilation made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards from reports of officials administering the license laws.

To the figure in question must be added several hundred thousands of dollars returned to victimized clients through the activities of real estate commissions in the ten states which have kept no statistical records.

More than 19,147 complaints have been investigated and adjusted by the commissions administering real estate license laws, the reports further show.

$129,930 Refunded in 1927.

A total of $329,930 was refunded during the year 1927 alone in the eleven states where commissions kept record of such refunds. Complaints to the number of 2,224 were adjusted during the year by the eighteen real estate commissions which kept such a numerical record.

Commissioners in a number of states have been active in suppressing the sale of lots by what is known as the "free lot scheme." Real estate commissions in Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Illinois, and California have taken the stand that operation of such a scheme of sales is sufficient ground for revocation of license.

The real estate commission of New Jersey reports that the aid of the commission was sought during the year by 2,000 or more persons, many of whom were making their first purchase of property located in the state.

A very important service of the California real estate department is its examination of and report upon rural lands subdivisions. During the last year the department has made 24 such inspection reports. A questionnaire is sent to the subdivider to fill out and return. The questionnaire inquires into financing, title, how held, incumbrances and releases, water sources and general adaptation to expected uses. The department then follows the inquiry with personal inspection by agricultural deputies. The findings and recommendations are discussed with the subdividers. The department where necessary broadcasts written reports on projects using inflated advertising, mailing them to chambers of commerce and realty boards.

Developers Halted.

Last year the California department stopped the sale of over 20,000 acres being sold in ten acre plots, advertised as likely to enhance in value when the Boulder dam project was completed. The department placed an altimeter at various points and found the lands to be several hundred feet elevation above the highest possible point of canal reach from the Colorado river. Another of 12,000 acres was found to be so poorly financed that they must depend upon sales with which to install necessary improvements, including canals, roads, etc.

The stopping of these sales is estimated to have saved the public the loss of several millions of dollars.

The earliest real estate license laws became effective in 1919. Such laws are in operation in 1928 in 22 states and one Canadian province.

Widow of Italy's War Hero Given Million Lire

Naples.—The widow of Marshal Diaz, who led the Italian troops to victory in the World war, is to have a million lire from the country in addition to a special pension and whatever other pensions he enjoyed at the time of his death last winter.

His will, written on his deathbed, was pathetic in its simplicity. "I have nothing to leave my wife and children but the house in Naples, which the citizens gave me; my swords, my war decorations, and a few shares in an industrial concern."

The shares proved to be of little value and the war hero's widow and three children found themselves in straits when the magnificent state funeral was over and the household bills began to come in.

His widow's pension will now be equal to $5,000 a year, but the million lire, about $50,000, will be given her at once.

Diaz, who was created Duca della Vittoria, left two pretty young daughters and one son, who is now working in a bank in Rome.

Americans Buy Home of Ampere as Memorial

Polemieux, France.—The old home of Andre Marie Ampere, one of France's electrical wizards, has been bought by Americans and given into the keeping of the French Society of Electricians.

Sosthenes Behn, president of the International Telephone company, and his brother Hernand, were the donors who made possible the establishment of the home as a permanent memorial to the man whose name is used as a unit of measurement in electricity.

In keeping with the spirit of this event, there was celebrated simultaneously the inauguration of electric service in this mountain village, near Lyons, one of the few places in France that still relied on candles and kerosene.

Diamonds in America

Although Arkansas is the only place in which real diamonds are found in the rough in America, the United States is credited with having 10,000,000 carats of cut diamonds in its citizens' jewelry boxes.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, July 27 (AP).—State Department of Agriculture and Markets.—Southern peach receipts were much lighter today and prices declined further in a weak and sluggish market. Trade was slow. A large movement of the elberta variety of Jersey and Georgia fruits were reported at $1 @ $1.25, while Jersey sold from $1-$1.50.

Peach shipments for the entire country the preceding week filled 2,175 cars, an increase of 1,836 over the week before.

Demand for state lettuce was more active on good quality stock. The tone was firmer and values a shade higher, despite fairly liberal arrivals. Looking business on crates of 24 heads of Big Boston was chiefly at $1.75@2, occasionally $2.25, and as low as $1. Romaine sold at 50c-$1.25.

Supplies of celery from Orange county, N. Y., were lighter, but the market ruled inactive and lower owing to poor demand. Celery in the bunch, packed in two-third crates, peddled out at $2 @ $4. Michigan celery in highball crates realized $1-$1.25.

Few important price changes were noted on Hudson Valley berries of all kinds. Sour cherries, as usual on Fridays met a limited sale and values tended downward.

Heavy receipts, many of which were unattractive, resulted in a rather sharp price decline on upstate green peas. Wholesale transactions ranged from 40c @ $1.50, very rarely higher, per bushel basket.

Arrivals of up-state New York string beans are steadily increasing. Fancy under beans, when available, found a ready sale, whereas unattractive stock was neglected. Bushel baskets of the wax variety moved as high as $2.50 for the very best and as low as 15 cents on the poorest. Green beans sold at 50c@$2.00.

More than 50 carloads of California Bartlett pears were available for early buyers. The market ruled slightly weaker. Boxes of 100 and 210 pears wholesaled at $1.50@$3.25, principally $1.90@$2.40.

Last week California rolled 1,977 carloads of pears to city consuming centers.

Miss Wills Wins Another.

Manchester, Mass., July 27 (AP).—Miss Helen Wills, defeated Ruth Cross of San Francisco, Pacific coast woman's champion, to win the Essex County Club tennis tournament bowl today. The scores were 6-1, 6-3. Only in the second set did Miss Cross give the champion any real opposition.

Vessels In Collision.

Montreal, Que., July 27 (AP).—The Canadian Pacific liner Montrose was in collision with the Collier Rose Castle at Sorel this morning. Neither vessel, according to first reports, was seriously damaged.

Big Bill Tilden Beats Lacoste

Rolland Carros Stadium, Auteuil, France, July 27 (AP).—Big Bill Tilden today defeated his old rival, Rene LaCoste of France in the first match of the Davis cup challenge round by scores of 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

The American veteran came from behind after dropping the first set and outlasted the French master of machine like strokes in one of the most gruelling five-set struggles these tennis giants have ever waged.

By winning Tilden gave his team a flying start in its drive to regain the Davis cup from the French who captured it a year ago in the United States.

The Americans now faced the task of winning two of the remaining four matches if they were to lift the cup. The second match was scheduled for later in the day and pitted Henri Cochet of France against the Young American John Hennessey.

Tilden's victory was his first over LaCoste in the last five times they have met and it can be set down as an upset.

Big Bill won in a manner as dramatic as were the events of the past week in which he was dropped from the team for alleged violation of the amateur rule and then reinstated at the eleventh hour at the urgent request of the French people.

From the start the match was a duel for individual supremacy as it always has been when Lacoste has met Tilden and this time both had a great added incentive in the Davis cup.

Instead of making a great fight for the opening set as he usually does, the lanky American boy lost it at 6-1 and started his spurt in the next two sets. He carried them both at 6-4 and after the intermission was able to hold his own, winning the last of the two remaining sets and the match.

In the face of Tilden's last furious assault the mechanical precision of Lacoste was as nothing and Tilden ran out the set with three straight games.

SHAVE HEADS OF BAD BOYS AS PUNISHMENT

Argentina's Method Proves to Be Effective.

New York—Down in the Argentine republic if a boy is bad and you whip him he forgets the whipping but remembers the badness. But if you cut off his hair, shave it right down to the scalp, it hurts, and he forgets the badness and remembers the hair cutting.

With which interesting homily on South American discipline, Jose Amaturro of Buenos Aires, who is in America now to study reformatories, discussed recently the "reform camp" he has built out of a real penitentiary in three years.

Officially, Jose is a Y. M. C. A. secretary on leave, loaned to the Argentinian government. Actually, however, he is a sort of big brother to 350 "bad boys" of his country. He has taken the juvenile malefactors of the Argentine out of chain gangs into homes.

Started Work Three Years Ago.

"Three years ago," said Senor Amaturro, "the minister of education asked me what I could do with the boys who have received sentences for crimes from the courts. Then they were all housed in one building and they were treated like prisoners. They were always handcuffed or big chains were placed on their ankles. So I didn't know what I could do. But I told him I'd try something.

"I demanded three things. First, that there be no politics if I tried to help the boys. You know there is nothing but politics in everything in my country. Then I insisted on running my own budget and last that I should not take any men or women workers who came to me recommended by officials. I knew that type in my country."

It's a long story this bright, black-eyed young Argentinian had to tell. In three years, for instance, his institution has produced $200,000 worth of various goods in his 17 shops and 18 farms. It has spent the money for more and better equipment. It has produced, too, one boy who is certainly going to represent his country in the coming Olympic games and another who has a pretty good chance to do it.

Knows His Boys.

It has produced carpenters and masons who built 35 houses for themselves. It has brought out a furniture maker who sold a chair and desk to the President of the republic—"at a good price, too"—for his use in the official headquarters of the Argentine. Lots of other things have been done.

The thing that was most impressive about the youngster who in three years changed the system of handling boy criminals is that he knows so much about boys.

"I read the football stories in the paper every day. I've learned the boys are football crazy. So I know the names of all the stars, and I argue with the boys. That makes friends.

"I don't preach a sermon. I get out and play with 'em. I pat them on the back and shake hands.

"I haven't whipped a boy since I took the place. It isn't necessary. You can joke with a boy and get him to do more than you can when you force him.

"When a boy is a little bad I deny him the swimming pool. When he is very bad I cut his hair. They love their hair and that's what hurts them most.

"Let them plan things themselves. They figure out their own menus, for instance. They do whatever kind of work they want to do.

"Take them places. I try to give them little outings whenever I can."

Jose got his training in the Y. M. C. A. schools here. He's back now officially representing the government to study reform schools.

Influence of Health on Progress Studied

Washington.—The history of health, and how health conditions influenced the progress of Americans for the last 300 years, is being studied for the first time this summer. The American Historical association has commissioned Dr. Richard H. Shryock, research scholar appointed under the $50,000 memorial fund established in honor of former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge by his widow, to do this job.

Historians often mention spectacular epidemics or strange medical practices, and medical men record the technical progress of their science, but none heretofore has made an attempt to relate the status of the nation's health with its social background.

Doctor Shryock will work this summer among scholars of Washington and Philadelphia.

Lapis Lazuli Monopoly Given to German Firm

Idar, Germany.—As first evidence of the much heralded trade development with Afghanistan expected to result from King Amanullah's recent visit, a local firm announces that it has been granted by the Afghan monarch the monopoly for importing Afghan lapis lazuli.

It is claimed that nowhere in the world is lapis lazuli found of such good quality as in Afghanistan. Idar is a small town on the River Nahe, a tributary of the Rhine, and has a special industry connected with the setting and mounting of semi-precious stones.

If a man has money, says the old sheep herder, in Farm and Fireside Magazine, he can buy his way in and think he's getting there faster. But the only real way is for a man to start young and grow into the game, learning as he goes.

HERZOG WINDOW DISPLAY ATTRACTS ATTENTION

A display calling attention to Moore's house paint is being made in one of the show windows of Herzog's store, 302 Wall street. It attracts attention of pedestrians who stop, look and comment on the novelty of the attraction. A dummy manikin of a painter with pail of Moore's house paint in hand at intervals pours paint from the can into a barrel and while so doing moves his eyes and head as he watches a dog standing rampant with forelegs at the top rim of the barrel and moving his head in an interested manner as the painter pours the paint.

Hudson Doctor Dead

Dr. Aurelius Milford Tracy, father of County Judge John C. Tracy, died at his home in Hudson Wednesday evening after an illness of about a year. Dr. Tracy, who practiced in Hudson for 49 years, was considered a man who fulfilled the standards of the medical profession to the highest degree.

Hotelman Dead

James B. Lynch, for many years proprietor of the Newton Hook Hotel, at Newton Hook, N. Y., died at his home there Tuesday evening of pneumonia.

Good and Bad Qualities

The ailanthus or tree of heaven has some disadvantages but it does not appear to be destructive. Its roots do not spread like those of the Carolina poplar and other trees, so as to penetrate sewers, crack curbing and walls. It thrives in the poorest soil and is of very rapid growth. Its worst fault is the unpleasant odor of the staminate flowers.

KOENIGS TIE BLUE SOX; TO MEET RONDOUTS SUNDAY.

The Blue Sox and the Koenig All-Stars battled to a 4-4 tie in a five inning game at Hasbrouck Park Thursday evening. Darkness caused the tilt to be called in the fifth. Nick Huber was on the mound for the Sox and Luke Mathela did the twirling for the Kandy Kids.

The Koenigs will mix it with the Rondout A. C. Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Block Park diamond. In a previous meeting the former nine took the bacon and the Rondouts are out to avenge the defeat. Manager Golnek will count on either Peters or Doyle to hurl with Dulin as the receiver. Komosa and Chester are slated to form the battery of the Kandy Kids.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 27 (AP).—The recovery in stock prices made further progress in the stock market today. There was an ample supply of call money. Early gains of 1 to 7 points were distributed over a broad list, with the motors, coppers, rubbers and airplanes giving the best demonstrations of group strength. Several weak spots developed during the session but they failed to stem the upward surge.

Banks called $5,000,000 in loans but there was no strain on call money, which renewed unchanged at 5½ per cent. The influx of out of town funds, attracted by the possibility of higher call money rates over the month end, helped to ease the situation.

Pool operations in radio sent that stock up 7 points. Eastman Kodak advanced nearly 6 to a new high record at 190⅞, on buying influenced by the reported development of color photography with amateur motion picture machines. Wright Aeronautical soared 6 points and Curtiss Aeroplane, Coty, American Smelting, International Nickel, American Can, American Express and A. M. Byers sold 3 to 4½ points higher.

Oils responded to stiffening gasoline prices. Coppers were under accumulation on reports of large current earnings. Steels apparently were discounting the expected improvement in earnings in the last half of the year.

Rubbers were again in demand on the theory that the leading producers all had taken large inventory losses in the first half of the year and were now in a position to show large earnings. Chrysler and Dodge Brothers issues led the advance in the motors despite reports that insufficient stock had been deposited to make the merger effective.

OIL BARGE EXPLOSION ENDANGERS SHIPPING

Buffalo, July 27 (AP).—An explosion aboard the oil barge James F. Kale in Buffalo harbor early today destroyed the boat and endangered shipping. One man, who was blown overboard, was believed to be fatally injured. Another was missing.

Accompanied by a tug, the barge arrived last night. The tug managed to get away after the explosion. Flaming oil on the water drove fire boats off, leaving several oilers and freighters in danger for more than an hour.

The injured man was Nelson Farstead of Toronto. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Tariff Treaty Signed.

Washington, July 27 (AP).—A new tariff treaty with China making effective "complete national tariff autonomy" on January 1, 1929, if ratified by that time, was signed at Peking July 25.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Grace J. Austin.

Out in that charming imaginary sun parlor, where Dame Fashion is staging many of her small dramas this season, with characters ranging all the way from gold fish to locket-ring makers, there will be many letters written this summer. Dame Fashion has sometimes thought she could tell almost directly when a letter to her had been written in the open air. All insensibly, some happy freshness of the open seems to creep into it.

Manufacturers are learning about this, and innumerable gifts of light weight and inexpensive portfolios were given this spring, especially about Mother's day time, when exhortations to write letters were sounding everywhere in the air. With one of these light, flat things on the lap, letter-writing in the open is as easy as anything that can be imagined.

Are there new fashions in stationery? demanded Dame Fashion. And then any number of kinds of interesting letter paper lay before her. We have heard a great deal about how trimming is increasing upon dresses, and letter paper seems to have caught the fever. Even old conservative manufacturers, who for years stemmed the tide of letter paper frills, are now giving way and putting out deckle edges, transverse envelope openings and as many colorings as Joseph's coat. Linings have entirely vanished from gowns for women. Dame Fashion might safely offer to give a dollar for every new dress of this year made with an old-fashioned sewed-in lining. And where did those linings go? They hopped right into envelopes. If you buy an unlined envelope—ah, you are sadly out of date!

And how this lazy world is looked after and protected! The manufacturers saw there were many to whom the labor of putting a letter into an envelope seemed somewhat of a task. So for these, there are several varieties of letter paper which combine the sheet and envelope, and by a few deft folds and sealings—there you are, ready for the postman. A thought strikes Dame Fashion that, after all, such were very much the type of self-enveloped letters that the Pilgrim Fathers used, and if anyone should hint that they were lazy, probably hanging would be considered too good for him!

Oh, but this is the patriotic kind of stationery that appeals most to Dame Fashion! All across one corner of each envelope goes a band of red, white and blue, with the mystic letters: AIR MAIL. These have been methodically adjusted as to weight, so that if you write upon a sheet of this paper and place it within the envelope with the fancy sash, you may add your air-mail stamp calmly, knowing you are using Uncle Sam's correct weight allowance for a letter to be taken by one of his gallant flyers.

Bengals and Felts Are Among Season's Favorites

Sports Togs Offered in Many Smart Wearables

Sports clothes are distinctive in an unobtrusive way, calling attention to the charm of the wearer rather than to themselves. Vigorous self-confident styles are offered the sportswomen—buoyantly youthful scarf dresses, colorful two-piece frocks of silk, clever tub dresses of pique and linen, modernistic sweaters, printed jersey, knitwear shot with metal threads, and very smart designs in all fabrics.

Midget Honey Bees

The smallest honey bees in the world are found in the East Indian islands and on the mainland of Hindustan. Their honeycombs are no larger than a child's hand, and the cells are about the size of a small pinhead.

PORT EWEN

Many people will go on the excursion to Newburgh Saturday. The Steamboat Odell leaves the dock at Rondout at 12:30 o'clock. This is the first attempt of the Ladies' Aid and Dorcas Society, and they hope the members of the societies and congregation of the Reformed Church as well as their friends in the village and vicinity will help them to make a success of it.

SOUTH RONDOUT.

South Rondout, July 27.—The Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Ardron have returned home after spending a week in the mountains.

Preaching service on Sunday morning at 10:45 and 7:30 in the evening.

The Misses Olga and Helen Madsen and Martin Berseth of Brooklyn called on Mr. and Mrs. Knud Olsen on Sunday. They are staying at Olive Bridge.

Mrs. Jens Jeryenson and son, Therbein, of Brooklyn called on Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anders on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson of New York are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hyde and daughter, Janice, of Kingston spent Thursday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Liberty Hyde.

Hubert Hyatt, Mrs. Margaret Hyatt, Mrs. Edwin Cole and Miss Elizabeth Hines motored to Woodstock on Thursday and called on Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton.

Mrs. Julia Maines, Mrs. Arthur Mauer and Miss Sarah Becker motored to Esopus on Thursday and called on Mrs. Harry Maines.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marchant and children of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Marchant.

MOTOR BOAT RUNS ON SEAWEED PATCH

Lobster Fisher Makes Use of Yankee Ingenuity.

East Harpswell, Maine.—Patching a motor engine with seaweed and making it run is the latest achievement of Yankee ingenuity.

When Carroll Merriam started for a trip in his motor boat to haul his lobster pots he found that nocturnal marauders had stripped his craft. They stole oars, brass running lights, six cells of battery and oilskins, and, worst of all, they cut his six-foot copper gasoline feed line connecting the tank with the carburetor.

With no place within miles where he could obtain copper pipe, with no near neighbors and with an order to furnish fifty fine lobsters at 50 cents a pound for a noontime shore dinner, Merriam showed that Yankee ingenuity still flourishes.

He had a battery for a radio set in his home, and this he soon connected with his motor.

Then he rowed his dory out a few hundred yards to the Seal ledges, where he found a piece of kelp or devil's apron with an eight-foot stem that was hollow. Taking this ashore, he pushed one end over the end of the severed pipe projecting from his fuel tank and the other end left at the carburetor.

Wrapping them tightly many times from a roll of friction tape, he thus improvised out of the hollow stalk a fuel pipe line that enabled him to haul his traps and fill his order.

Begin Classifying of 7,200 Kinds of Plants

Washington. — The classification and identification of a large collection of tropical flowers, ferns and plants gathered last winter in the lofty mountains and dense jungles of eastern Colombia, some of which have never before been seen by an American, is the summer's task confronting Dr. Ellsworth P. Killip and Albert C. Smith of the Smithsonian Institution.

Doctor Killip, assistant curator, and Mr. Smith, collaborator in the division of plants of the national museum, spent four months in the eastern cordillera of Colombia north of the Bogota region and brought back nearly 20,000 specimens representing about 7,200 varieties of plant life.

These included 800 "collecting numbers" of ferns, 300 of orchids, more than 200 of the mimosa and cassia families, about 75 morning glories and 100 passion flowers. Sets of the specimens have been distributed among the various institutions co-operating in the expedition, which was part of the botanical exploration of northern South America begun in 1917 by the New York Botanical Garden, the Gray Herbarium of Harvard university, and the National museum.

Corn Meal Widely Used

Investigations made by the Department of Agriculture show that more than 60 per cent of the food consumed by the people of the United States, on an average, is of vegetable origin, and that about one-seventh of this, or 8.7 per cent of the whole, is corn meal. Of the total protein consumed, animal as well as vegetable, corn meal supplies 10 per cent; of the total fat, 3.8 per cent, and of the total carbohydrates, 13.7 per cent.

Early American Poet

Walter Jerrold in his biography of the poet says that Oliver Wendell Holmes' grandmother was the great-great-grandmother of Anne Bradstreet. Critics sometimes refer to her as the first poet in the American colonies.

$155,719.77 Lost on Fight.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Tex Rickard announced today that the Madison Square Garden Corporation lost $155,719.77 on last night's Tunney-Heeney fight in the Yankee Stadium. Rickard's figures showed a gross of $691,014.50 and a net of $521,422.23.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zucca are enjoying a vacation at Ocean Grove, N. J.

Miss Catherine Gilday of Foxhall avenue is spending her vacation in New London, Conn.

Miss Elizabeth Wootton of the Harlem Hospital, New York city, is visiting at her home, 43 South Pine street.

Miss Julia Scully of this city is spending a few weeks with her cousin, Mrs. E. J. Bradley, at Maple Hill.

Mrs. Michael Long of Van Gaasbeck street, who was operated on recently, is improving satisfactorily at the Benedictine Hospital.

Edward J. Bradley of Maple Hill, Rosendale, is employed at C. Gethner's barber shop, Broadway, this city, while Mr. Gethner is on a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Short of this city are visiting his daughter, Mrs. Gilbert E. Redmond of Allaben, N. Y. Mr. Short has just passed his 75th birthday.

Charles H. Safford, who was taken suddenly ill early this week, is improving nicely under the care of Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen at the City of Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Styles of 66 Liberty street have returned home after an enjoyable and interesting auto trip to Boston, Providence and other points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Herdman are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a daughter, Jane Elizabeth, born July 25 at their home on the Plank Road.

Miss Mollie A. Schaeffer of 54 Clinton avenue and Miss Bertha Mathews of 207 Pearl street, will leave Kingston on Saturday morning on a Raymond & Whitcomb tour for the Pacific coast. The trip will last six weeks. Visits will be made to the Rocky Mountains, the Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Hollywood, Los Angeles and other points of interest. This will be Miss Mathews' sixth tour to the Pacific coast.

HEAVY RAINFALL FLOODED DOWNTOWN STREETS TODAY

Heavy clouds which hung over the city from early morning opened upon Kingston this afternoon. The deluge covered the streets in the vicinity of the Strand to a depth of about two inches. In the uptown section of the city the rainfall was not so heavy.

The uptown section of the city was the first to be visited by rainfall. At 11:30 a slight shower dampened the streets but ceased in a short time. The downtown section had none of this shower.

At approximately noon, rain began to fall in the downtown section, continuing for several minutes but ceased until a few minutes after 1 o'clock when the heavy rainfall began. The period between the slight and heavy showers was marked by darkness, several flashes of lightning and thunder. Darkness caused the stores to turn on lights, while autos passing through the streets were run with the headlights in use.

The storm which was one of the heaviest experienced this summer, undoubtedly caused many cellars to be flooded. The downtown section especially was covered with water which made traveling difficult for pedestrians and autos.

LOUGHRAN WILL ENTER HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION

New York, July 27 (AP).—Tommy Loughran today announced the intention of cleaning up all challengers for his world's light heavyweight boxing championship this fall and then entering the heavyweight division in the hope of a crack at Gene Tunney's crown.

"I have defeated all contenders for my title and my field is now limited," the Philadelphia Adonis declared today. "I'll fight either Leo Lomski or Jimmy Slattery in September, then may take on Mickey Walker in Chicago and then will give up my title to enter the heavies' ranks.

COCHET WINS GIVING FRANCE AN EVEN BREAK

Roland Garros Stadium, Auteuil, France, July 27 (AP).—Henri Cochet defeated John Hennessey by scores of 7-9, 9-7, 6-3, 6-0 today in the second singles match of the Davis cup challenge round.

The little French star from Lyons came back to give his country an even break in the first day's play against America in defense of the Davis cup. After a characteristically poor start he forced aside the Indianapolis youth in a closing burst of speed which swept the last set at love.

Rapid Work on Highway.

With just half a chance in the way of favorable weather the Troy Pavement Company, contractors of the Catskill-Cairo concrete highway, are making rapid progress toward extending one-way concrating toward Catskill. The two-way concrete has been uncovered west of Leeds, and full traffic between that point and Cairo is now open all the way to and through Cairo village.

Chief Wood Returns.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood has returned from attending the sessions of the New York State Police Chiefs herd in Garden City. The 1929 convention will be held in Cortland.

Society Notes

A Miscellaneous Shower.

Wittenberg, July 27.—There was a pleasant social gathering at the home of Mrs. L. Short Saturday evening, July 21, when a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Miss Helen Short. There were guests present from Kingston, Marlborough, Woodstock, Ashokan, Bearsville, Samsonville and Wittenberg. Miss Helen received many useful and pretty gifts. There were fifty guests present. The guests left wishing Miss Helen a happy and prosperous future.

Allaben Birthday Party

Allaben, July 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert gave Arthur E. a surprise party at his home on Wednesday evening in honor of his seventeenth birthday. Plates were set for about 20 guests. Games were played during the evening and a very enjoyable time was spent. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Short of Kingston, Mrs. K. Sheene of New York, Mr. and Mrs. William Bear of Kingston. Among the young folks were Edgar Coddington of New York, Phoebe Rowe, Pauline and Evelyn Fraisier, Miss Sarah Roberts, Emma Miller, Richard Hummell, Frank Jones, Charles Griffin, Jimmie Krom, Joseph Hughes, Giles Tyler and a number of others. After a buffet luncheon was served about midnight all departed voting Mr. Redmond a royal entertainer and wishing him many more happy birthdays. He was the recipient of a number of presents.

Luncheon and Shower.

New Paltz, July 27.—Miss Mary M. Donahue of Millbrook was entertained at the Tea Market, Poughkeepsie, at a luncheon and shower Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Donald Briggs, the Misses Esther Haight, Helen Shepherd and Martha C. Nepfel, classmates of the bride-to-be, at the New Paltz Normal School. The dining room was prettily decorated in pink and white. The table was arranged attractively with favors of pink and white rose buds. Miss Donahue was presented with a very handsome pink silk boudoir set. She is to become the bride of Vincent Gaffney of New Paltz in the late fall. Miss Donohue is a graduate of the Millbrook Memorial High School and the New Paltz Normal. Among those present were Mrs. L. Abrams, Mrs. Loyd Archer, Mrs. Briggs, the Misses Katherine Traver, Florence, Virginia and Martha Nepfel, Helen Shepherd, Esther Haight, Leona Frye, Frances Donahue and Mary Donahue.

FORD BOUGHT RELICS OF STEAMER NORWICH

After being shown over what was left of the old Norwich by Mr. Tucker, who now owns her, on Thursday afternoon, Henry Ford arranged to purchase two small stands that were used in the captain's room and also two of the driving shafts of the engine. Mr. Tucker called his attention to the flagpole on the Norwich and Mr. Ford asked him to hold it for him as he might purchase it.

Cardinal Will Visit America.

Rome, July 27 (AP).—Cardinal Cerretti, head of the Pontifical Mission which will leave Sunday to attend the Eucharistic Congress at Sydney opening next September, will visit the United States on his return trip, the Cardinal spent several years in America as auditor of the apostolic delegation at Washington.

Lockout Will Affect 500,000.

Manchester, England, July 27 (AP).—A lockout that will affect about 500,000 workers was decided upon here today by the Master Spinners Federation as a means of alleviating condition in the industry. The lockout will be effective August 11.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Hannah Eliza Terwilliger, [illegible], died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William E. Graham, in Ellenville, on July 21. She was Ellenville's oldest resident. Besides her daughter she is survived by two sons, Ira Terwilliger of Perry, and Jesse Terwilliger of Thomaston, Conn. Funeral services were held Monday with interment in Fantinekill cemetery.

William E. O'Hara died Wednesday in a New Jersey hospital in his 57th year. He was born in Saugerties. The surviving relatives are a niece and two nephews, Walter J. and James J. O'Hara of the New York Police Department. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the chapel, [illegible] avenue, Manhattan, with interment in Calvary cemetery.

HEENEY'S HOME FOLKS GET NEWS OVER AMATEUR STATION

Medford, Mass., July 27 (AP).—An amateur radio station spanned the 12,500 miles that separate this city and Gisbourne, N. Z., to carry to Tom Heeney's home folks the news of the big battle in New York city and the challenger's personal post-fight message.

The message was sent from the Boston Globe to the Poverty Bay, N. Z., Herald through the private station of Albert F. Sise here. It was received at Gisbourne by Station OZ-2AC.

Heeney's personal word was: "I am very sorry but you folks at home know I did my best. I have been defeated but not hurt. Tom."

From Gisbourne came the reply: "We are not disappointed. We know you did your best and we are all very proud of you. We got your message and hope to hear from you again soon. We heard broadcast of fight. Love from all. Father and mother."

A Novelty Block Party.

A novelty block party will be held by Rapid Hose Company, No. 1, on Hone street, between Spring and Pierpont streets, Monday evening, August 13. Music will be furnished by Zucca's orchestra. If rain interferes the party will be held the next fair night.

DIED

ELSWORTH—In this city July 25, 1928, Cole T. Elsworth.

Funeral Saturday from the chapel of W. N. Conner, 302 Fair street, at 2 p. m. Relatives and friends are invited. Interment in Hurley cemetery.

In Memoriam.

In memory of Dennis J. Sullivan, who died one year ago today.

The fairest flowers are first to fall,
The sweetest first to fade,
The dearest, fondest, loved by all
within the grave is laid.
The flowers we place upon his grave
may wither and decay.
But love for him who sleeps beneath will never fade away.
(Signed)

SAFETY FIRST!

The examination of titles to real property and the preparation of Abstracts of Title is a technical profession, burdened with much responsibility, both financial and moral.

The certification of each Abstract is only as financially sound as the financial worth of its endorser.

Abstracts of Title (or searches), of necessity, are not independent products of the individual, firm or corporation certifying, but are dependent to a large extent upon the ability and integrity of persons in the employ of the various state, county and city offices, faithfully performing the duties of their respective office.

Thus, such certifications do represent financial risks and no individual regardless of ability is sufficiently sound, financially, to Guarantee against Loss, by reason of errors and omissions.

Value is contingent, not upon price alone, but upon usefulness and importance. The value of an Abstract of Title is contingent upon the Guarantee behind its endorser's certificate.

Obtain that Guarantee at no greater price and you have a Valuable Abstract of Title.

We offer such an indispensable service to you in Safeguarding, at all times, you and your clients interest from Loss and request that you

"Allow Us to Assume the Risk."

SEASONABLE DISHES

WHEN supper time comes and there is nothing hot to serve for the main dish, try this simple and easy to prepare one:

Custard Supper Dish.

Spread sufficient slices of bread with butter, lay in a baking dish, cover with grated cheese, fill the dish and then cover with a custard as follows: One pint of milk and two lightly beaten eggs, salt, and a few dashes of paprika. Set into the oven to bake. When well puffed and brown, serve at once. This is much like an omelet and should not stand when ready to serve, as it will fall. Test it as for any custard, to know when it is well cooked.

Pimento, Egg and Tuna Salad.

Mash the yolks of four hard-cooked eggs with three-fourths of a cupful of tuna fish well flaked, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and half a teaspoonful of salt. To one-third cupful of mayonnaise dressing add one-eighth of a teaspoonful of mustard, a few grains of cayenne and a tablespoonful of chopped pickles. Add a teaspoonful of dissolved gelatin to the mayonnaise and use to stuff the canned pimentoes which have been carefully drained. Set each in a gem pan until pimentoes, which have been carefully filled, are firm.

Stuffed Peppers.

Parboil a slice of ham and simmer for five minutes. Drain, reserving the liquid. Put the ham and a dozen soda crackers through the meat grinder, mix with a cupful of tomatoes and two well-beaten eggs. Chop one small onion very fine, add a sprig or two of minced parsley and mix well. Cut into halves six even-sized peppers, remove the seeds and white fiber and parboil for five minutes. Drain and fill the shells with the above mixture. Place in gem pans in a little water and bake until the ham is cooked.

Chop Suey.

Round steak with plenty of suet is a good meat for chop suey. This is a good dish to use when it is necessary to stretch the dish to serve more than are expected. Adding a can of green string beans with the liquor, a green pepper, and plenty of celery, a most nourishing dish may be served.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE STUDY OF SELF

INSTEAD of going afield, wasting precious time and energy in recounting the short-comings of others, suppose you sit down in your favorite chair some evening for at least half an hour and soberly catechise yourself.

Without some such attention to your own frailties, accompanied with a real desire to overcome them, there will be but a small likelihood indeed, of your rising above those you frequently censure.

Go at the distasteful task with an open mind, resolved to dig to the unexplored depths of your soul and lay bare its innermost faults.

Do not despair at what you find, for your infirmities are similar in almost every particular to those of your acquaintance upon whom you have gazed with an Argus eye for months, and years.

There is within you the same lack of virtue, the same streaks of oreless clay, the same disposition to err, the same inclination in hasty outbursts of passion to soil your lips and soul with ugly words and deeds.

These human beings who lack the moral courage to study self, must during their lives become reconciled to sit in dusty seats in the back row.

They can never hope for anything better, without being disappointed. A thick veil of misconception hangs continually before their hard drawn faces and darkens their vision.

They blunder along till the sunset of their days hides them in its somber shadows, wondering all the while as they hold to their stumbling gait, why the good angels fail to favor and prosper them.

They never learned that success is built upon a knowledge of self, a knowledge available to all.

Let this knowledge once illuminate your mind, you will emerge a new man or woman, equipped to do battle, to face incontestable facts, and to accept with unfailing strength and assurance the ennobling duties that crown men and women with victory.

"Know thyself," says an ancient proverb. Know that to study and to master self is your paramount obligation.

Know that by your own power of will, by your own honorable effort, assisted by unbroken faith, you can ride over "impossibles" while those ignorant of self-control rue blindly to chase elusive hopes and perilous illusions.

FORD RUBBER EXPERTS LEAVE FOR BRAZIL

Detroit, July 27 (AP).—Henry Ford has moved to relieve his huge organization against the possibility of a future shortage in supply of the world's rubber supply.

The action involved the departure from here last night of a large expedition of Ford engineers and chemists for Brazil to develop the cultivation of a specially engineered Ford rubber tree rubber bearer, which Ford officials will plant annually on each acreage to make up a tree for two million trees.

The tract, located along the Amazon and Tapajos rivers, was purchased from the Brazilian government shortly after the British rubber monopoly made itself felt in the American market and sent prices soaring. Similar projects were inaugurated by the Firestone and United States Rubber Companies.

According to company officials, the Ford land already has a number of native rubber trees growing on it and has been found by experts admirably suited for intensive cultivation.

The expedition sailed from Detroit on the Ford motor ship Lake Ormoc, which was outfitted to function for the next two years as an engineering and hospital base for the development work. The Lake Ormoc will be joined by the tow ship Lake Fargo, to take on additional supplies before continuing on a 5,700 mile journey. The Lake Fargo left Detroit July 11 with a cargo of machinery and other supplies.

TRINITY M. E. SUNDAY SCHOOL OUTING SATURDAY

The annual outing and basket picnic to be held by Trinity M. E. Sunday school Saturday promises to be one of the most enjoyable held in recent years. Arrangements have been made with the Central Hudson Steamboat Company for transportation of the party at nominal rates. One-half the usual fare is also provided on the busses running from the steamer landing at Poughkeepsie to Woodcliff Pleasure Park, just north of that city, where the center of activity will be located. Special concessions have also been offered by the park management. Everything has been done to provide the maximum of enjoyment at a minimum expense.

Woodcliff Park has grown to be a great attraction for the children of the Hudson Valley, and their elders as well. Thrilling rides, novelty entertainment, and an atmosphere of pleasure make it an excellent place to spend an outing. The new swimming pool, opened this week, will be a special attraction.

The steamer leaves Kingston at 12:30 p. m., sharp, and returning leaves Poughkeepsie at 6:36 p. m. Free transportation will be furnished to members of the school up to fourteen years of age. Members of the congregation and relatives and friends of members of the school are not only invited, but urged, to attend.

Afghanistan

A Caravan in the Khyber Pass.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

AFGHANISTAN, one of the most secluded of the larger countries of Asia, has come more into world consciousness in recent months than ever before because of the visit of its king and queen to Europe. Until this occasion these monarchs had never been outside their native land, and their trip through Europe was made up of a series of amazing adventures. A journey by an American through Afghanistan would be little less amazing.

Authorities differ as to the exact origin of the Afghans, but the old theory that they are of Semitic extraction is now discredited; it seems more probable that they are merely a mixture of Turanian tribes, developed here through many centuries of raids, migrations, and tribal changes.

In physical appearance the Afghan is a sort of Turco-Iranian type, the minor tribal divisions in the east of the country showing also a mixture of Indian blood. (The name "Afghan," or "Agwan," is of comparatively recent usage.)

The culture of the country is largely Persian; but an eager desire for learning is innate in every Afghan, and of late years not only Indian, but also British, culture and customs have begun to influence the better classes of the people.

The Afghans call their language "Pushtoo." For official matters, however, the Persian idiom is used and understood over most of the country. The Turkish and Mongolian tribes in western and central Afghanistan speak their own tongues. The ruling Amir knows Persian, some Pushtoo and Turkish.

Foreign newspapers, most of them coming from India, are most carefully read at the amir's court, where they are translated by hired students trained in India. The amir delights in illustrated newspapers and is himself a fairly good photographer.

Jealous of Harem.

The Afghan is notoriously jealous of his harem, and few, indeed, are the men of the outside world who have ever looked on the face of an Afghan woman of the towns. With the desert women, wives and daughters of the nomads, it is different: the Koran permits them to go unveiled. The breaking of this custom by the queen on her recent journey was deplored by many Moslems.

The Afghan works no more than is absolutely necessary to make his living. The upper classes consider it their privilege to exploit the poor, and the burden of taxation is very heavy.

As for entertainment, the people, especially the wealthy, are fond of games and of sports. Hunting, horse-racing, wrestling matches, and gymnastic games are popular. Recently, football and tennis have been adopted by the upper-class youngsters of Kabul. Ram fights, cock-fighting, and even fights between male quail, are favorite diversions, and throughout all Afghanistan dancing is indulged in and the public declamation of ballads is warmly applauded.

Every better-class Afghan owns a piano, imported from Bombay, which he plays with one finger, keeping his foot on the loud pedal constantly. When an outsider plays for them, using ten fingers at a time, they are overcome with amazement and admiration. A tale is told of one man at Kabul who sawed the legs off his grand piano, so that he might play it while sitting on the floor, Afghan fashion.

Costumes vary in different parts of the country. In the East the garments approach the Indian style, and of late years a few natives have even appeared in European dress. A decade ago the amir introduced European uniforms and suits for himself and his whole staff of officials.

European hats and uniforms of all styles, imported in quantities from India, are often worn in the most singular combinations.

The typical national dress of the Afghan consists of a long-tailed calico shirt, white pants, leather shoes or boots, and a tanned sheep-skin coat elaborately embroidered with yellow silk; this coat is sometimes replaced by a long toga of red cloth.

Three kinds of headgear are customary. Some wear a low, many-colored cap; others a blue or white turban, which is frequently gold-embroidered with a flap hanging down behind to protect the neck from the sun. In some provinces men wear the kulah, a colored cap that looks like a Turkish fez, which widens toward the top.

In the house and at work women wear long calico shirts, wide, colored pants like the men, and head-cloths above gold-embroidered caps. Their street dress consists of long, wide pants and a blue or black overdress, the costume being completed by a loose garment that covers the head and upper part of the body, just allowing the eyes to look through a latticed insert like a strip of mosquito bar. The feet are stuck in large red slippers.

Meager Bill of Fare.

The bill of fare of the Afghan is very simple and reflects the poverty of the country. Bread, fruits, vegetables, tea, sweet milk, sour milk, and cheese are the main foods. Rice, mutton, fowl, and sweets cooked in various ways are found on the tables of the well-to-do. The average Afghan has no particular fondness for wine or spirits.

Tobacco raised in the land is of inferior quality; the better sorts are imported from Russia, India and Egypt. The Amir Habibullah Khan always had a good private stock of Havana cigars. Both young and old people take snuff.

Tea, sweetened and unsweetened, is the favorite drink and is consumed in prodigious quantities. When you go to see an Afghan, you can hardly escape before swallowing four or five cupfuls of tea; it is, therefore, no trifling gastronomic feat to pay several visits in one afternoon, the more so if the polite host (with a view of honoring the western guests) has the tea served in big Russian glasses.

The right hand is always used in eating and drinking, the left hand being considered unclean.

Dogs, though numerous and useful, are looked upon as unclean, and pious people never touch them.

Animals that go badly lame on the march or camels that get snowbound in the mountain passes are abandoned to their fate. Afghans never kill such animals, as we might do, to put them out of their misery. They believe that the lives of all living things are in the hands of Allah, and that man sins if he presumes to interfere with the supreme will. Afghans will not even kill fleas or other vermin; they merely pick them off and throw them away!

The trade of Afghanistan is moved entirely by caravans and is largely in the hands of Hindus and Tadjiks. The chief route lies through the famous Khyber pass, the great gateway from India, which has been fortified by the British government.

This pass is open every week, on Tuesdays and Fridays, except in very hot weather, when it is available to trade only on Fridays. A most rigid scrutiny is exercised by the amir's agents on all who come and go. As soon as caravans from India enter the country, their Indian leaders are turned back and heavily-armed Afghan guides take their places.

Caravans Well Regulated.

Some of these Afghan caravans, organized with military precision, number thousands of camels and a proportionate number of guides and camel-drivers. In the morning the Khyber pass is open for caravans coming into Afghanistan, and in the afternoon for those routed in the opposite direction. The pass is absolutely closed between sun-down and sun-up.

Along all the caravan trails in the country are good, solid caravansaries, built of stone and clay, situated about a day's march from each other.

The most important caravan roads leading out of Afghanistan, are: In the west, from Herat to Meshed; in the north, from Maimene and Aktcha to Kerki; in the east, from Kabul to Peshawar, and in the south from Kandahar to Quetta.

Important cities like Kabul, Kandahar, Herat, Maimene, and Mazar-i-Sharif are connected by fairly good caravan roads, which, over various long stretches, can be used by motor cars. The amir has good motor roads, built in and around Kabul to link up his palaces.

Owing to the aggressive pursuit and harsh punishment meted out by the amir's troops, the once famous robbers of the Afghan hills have almost disappeared, so that caravans, even in the desert districts, can now travel in safety; but in some provinces near the borders constant quarrels and raids are going on among hostile tribes.

SUMMER COLDS

FOR quick relief from those annoying colds in the head that linger so in summer, melt some Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the vapors. Also place some Vicks in the nostrils and snuff well up the nose. It quickly soothes the inflamed membrane, and clears the head—without "dosing."

Noted Rabbi to Speak Here.

The chief Rabbi of Grodno, Lithuania, Rabbi Berkelstein, is going to address the Kingston Jewry on Saturday, July 28, at 5 p. m. in behalf of the Rabbinical Institute of the same city. A large attendance is expected. The rabbi is well known to Kingston Jews. He spoke in the Synagogue Anshie Achim on West Chester street, some time ago. On Sunday at 7 p. m. he is going to deliver a memorial address upon the Master Strauss Rabbi, who died recently. This address will also be delivered in Anshie Achim.

Moran to Address Kiwanis.

Francis T. Moran, director of probation of the Department of Correction and a member of the commission, will be the speaker at the meeting of Kiwanis Club here on August 6. Mr. Moran, who has addressed Kiwanis before, is a very interesting speaker and an authority on the subject of probation.

Hay Fever
Home Treatment
If you want a really effective treatment for Hay or Rose Fever go right to McBride's Drug Stores and ask for a bottle of Opex.
Spray the nostrils two or three times a day—oftener if necessary.
You'll be surprised and delighted—not only will Opex soothe and heal the raw inflamed membrane, but it will promptly stop the humiliating discharge. If it fails, get your money back.
The price is but $1.00 and McBride's Drug Stores will gladly tell you all about it.
